Big Bill Means It
Gold Nugget Turkey
Chicago's Plans
J. P. M. and U. S. Steel

By Arthur Brisbane

Copyright, 1927, by Star Co.

CHICAGO, ILL., Dec. 27.—"Big Bill" Thompson of this city says about patriotism in school books:

"As long as Bill Thompson is mayor of Chicago, they are not going to call George Washington a rebel. I object to Superintendent McAndrews removing pictures of the "Spirit of '76" from the school rooms and I am going to kick McAndrews out of the schools.

"They are not going to teach the children that Hancock was a smuggler, that Patrick Henry was a drunken lawyer, that the Constitution of the United States was drawn up by a lot of drunken bums."

To King George, Washington was a rebel, of course because he rebelled against the government then established in America. In the eyes of Americans he is one of the world's greatest men. It is dangerous to take liberties with a nation's heroes, as Byron pointed out in Don Juan.

"Cervantes smiled Spain's chivalry away;
A single laugh demolished the right arm
Of his own country; . . . seldom since that day
Has Spain had heroes."

Nobody will smile away the heroism of America's great ones while "Big Bill" Thompson lives and fights.

There is excitement at Red Lodge, Montana. Mrs. A. Pollard, opening the gizzard of her Christmas turkey, raised in that neighborhood, found small gold nuggets. Prospectors are seeking desperately the spot where the turkey picked up the nuggets. To the turkey hose nuggets were simply rough stones swallowed to help grind corn. To "proud man" those nuggets are the beginning and the end of earthly ambition, ninety-nine times out of a hundred. Wise turkey, foolish man.

Chicago, according to Frederick Rex, municipal librarian, now has a population of 3,741,910.

What is more important than population to a great city, Chicago has courage, power and foresight to prepare for the 5,000,000 and 10,000,000 population that are coming.

The writer inspected today with Mr. James Simpson, chairman of Chicago's Plan Commission, the things that Chicago PLANS to do, and the amazing things that Chicago actually has DONE. Doing equals planning here, and both amaze anybody accustomed to the slow movement of Swiss glaciers or the slower progress of New York city where

MAYOR WALSH INVITES 'DARKENED' HUB TO GAY OLD TIME AT RESORTS

While prospective Boston celebrators of New Year's Eve were forced to be content today with the statement that patrons of hotels may remain after midnight Saturday when all public entertainment ceases, announcement was made that Revere will be wide open Sunday night.

There will be no midnight shows in Boston on Sunday night, nor will the night clubs be permitted to put on their customary entertainment, but down in Revere the ban will be lifted at midnight Sunday, Mayor John E. Walsh announced.

Referring to a midnight show and dancing party to be given in the beach city on Sunday night, Mayor Walsh declared there are too many blue laws at present, that he doesn't require aid in running Revere, and believes youth should stay up all night New Year's if it cares to.

JAIL MATES THREATEN ATTACK ON HICKMAN

Los Angeles, Cal., Dec. 28.—Los Angeles officials are not misled by the apparent calm that settled over the city with the jailing of William Edward Hickman, confessed kidnaper and murderer of Marion Parker.

Jail officials are uneasy over their responsibility of guarding the prisoner. They fear an attempt at suicide by the prisoner and attempts at violence by other jail inmates.

Feeling against Hickman was reported running high among the other prisoners. Ominous threats came to the ears of Chief Jailer Frank Dewar. It was reported prisoners had been found fashioning clubs out of broomsticks they had purloined. All cells were searched for articles that might be used as weapons.

Every other precaution has been taken to prevent a mutiny among the prisoners, and special guards

27TH VICTIM OF BAG SNATCHER ROUTS HIM

Struggling, kicking and even biting, Margaret Collins of Green street, Cambridge, today routed the Cambridge bag snatcher and recorded herself as the 27th woman to be assaulted by thugs.

Miss Collins had the bag securely fastened to her arm as a precaution against the assaults that terrorized women in the district, she told police of the Central square station.

She described him as a man of 25, about 5 feet 3 inch tall and probably bearing marks of her blows.

Two bakery employes rushing to her assistance arrived on the scene just after the thug escaped from the clutch of Miss Collins. A matter of seconds allowed him to escape. They gave chase, only to see him escape in an auto with a cloud of dust obscuring the registration plate.

Police scoured the district, but found no trace of the man or car.

THOUSANDS CHEER AS LINDY ENDS FIRST LAP OF SOUTHERN FLIGHT

Guatemala City, Guatemala, Dec. 28.—Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh, flying from Mexico City, arrived here this afternoon. Thousands welcomed him.

President Chacon, members of his Cabinet and high state officials were at the landing field to see Lindy complete the first leg of his Central American good will flight and blazing a new aerial trail from Mexico City to Guatemala.

Lindbergh made excellent time, flying the 700 miles from Mexico City in slightly less than six and a half hours.

Immediately after he had landed the aviator was greeted by Colonel Francisco Amado, who welcomed him in behalf of the Guatemalan army.

"Colonel Lindbergh, hero of the Atlantic and ambassador of the air, Guatemala bids you welcome," Colonel Amado said. "We feel proud, as it is an honor for us to receive a visit from the greatest aviator of all times. You have broken many records and today you have added a new one to your long list of marvelous flights in your "Spirit of St. Louis.

"I come in the name of the government and the name of the army of Guatemala to receive you with open arms and greet you with a heart full of admiration and love."

SCORES SEE GIRL AND BOY SKATERS RESCUED

Crashing through ice into the deep waters of Upper Mystic Lake while on an early morning skating trip, Miss Ilse Lesmeyer, New England Conservatory of Music student, and Bertram Lewis, 11, U. undergraduate, were saved from drowning today by four men and a boy while many persons looked on.

While waiting for help to arrive, young Lewis clung to the edge of the ice with one arm and supported the girl with the other, as the dark current of the channel off the Winchester Boat Clubhouse dragged at their feet.

Their cries for help were heard by Leonard Snyder, sixteen, of Fenway, Winchester, who ran out on the ice in his pajamas. Unable to save the pair single-handed, he returned to his home for a ladder, at the same time shouting for aid.

NEW CLEWS IN SEARCH FOR LOST DAWN PLANE

St. John's, N. F., Dec. 28.—Another addition to the growing list of rumors about the missing Greenoll plane, the Dawn, was made here today.

The Daily News, a morning newspaper in this city, published a statement by Rev. Edward Bishop, an Anglican clergyman at Ponch Cove, 20 miles north of St. John's, that he heard an airplane while he was in the vestry of his church Sunday noon.

The statement said the plane apparently was proceeding eastward.

The clergyman said he thought at the time that it was the Dawn heading from Harbor Grace for England. As no newspapers were have been stationed at Hickman's cell to protect him.

Meanwhile, Jailer Dewar has issued explicit orders that Hickman shall not be permitted to receive any visitors.

Maudlin sentiment and misplaced sympathy, Dewar is determined, shall be discouraged.

Letters, mostly from women offering to pray for Hickman, already have begun to pour into Dewar's office.

Although Hickman has asserted he will not fight the kidnaping and murder charges, followers of the case today pointed out that his counsel might seize the opportunity to use Autpsy Surgeon Wagner's declaration that the Parker girl died of fright and not primarily from strangulation as a basis for the defense.

District Attorney Asa Keyes today took issue with the report of Dr. Wagner, and said:

"Dr. Wagner's friendship for the Parker girl misled him in his conclusions.

"Even if she did die from heart failure, Hickman could receive the death sentence just the same if convicted. The child was normal and healthy when she was stolen from home and if she died of heart failure Hickman would be just as guilty of her murder as if he killed her with a gun. But she did not die of heart failure; she was choked to death."

Dr. Wagner, who lives next door to the Parker house, stated in his report that there was nothing in the lungs to indicate strangulation and that no poison was found in the girl's vital organs.

His belief was that, due to fright and exhaustion, her heart ceased to function when Hickman placed a towel about her neck and drew it tight in preparation to kill her.

Hickman was taken from his cell today for the daily "show up" and was posed before detectives and deputy sheriffs as they might become familiar with his appearance. He later was questioned again by the district attorney.

Decision as to how Hickman would plead at his arraignment tomorrow would not be decided, Keyes said, until the arrival of Jerome Walsh, Kansas City lawyer who has been named to defend the prisoner.

Hickman Linked With Slaying of Autoist

Chicago, Dec. 28.—William Edward Hickman was linked up with the slaying of an aged motorist on a Kansas highway last Summer in information con-eyed to Los Angeles authorities by Assistant United States Attorney D. G. Hutchinson of Chicago.

Hutchinson was visiting his father-in-law, Albert Regler, at Cottonwood Falls, Kas., last September at the time the body of a man about 75 who had been shot to death was found in a ditch on a trunk highway at the outskirts of the town. Papers found on the body indicated that he was from Iowa, en route to Texas.

In investigating the slaying officials found in Topeka a wrecked automobile which they believed was stolen from the motorist by his slayer. The motorist had been seen in a Cottonwood Falls restaurant in company with a youth, where a waiter gathered from their conversation that the man had picked up

World Flier in Crash

Hicksville, N. Y., Dec. 28.—Major Frederick L. Martin, commander of the U. S. Army Round-the-World Flight in 1924, and a companion escaped with cuts and bruises when a plane piloted by Martin crashed in an attempt to land in a ploughed field.

"Mike," Faithful Old Ice Wagon Horse, Dies in Harness

"He struggled and wended his way,
With only his oats the day's pay.
But he pulled to the last,
Lo! these many years past,
Then simply died in the harness!"
—Anon.

Pulling his last load, "Mike," a familiar sight to housewives in Cambridgeport who kept an eye out for the ice wagon drawn by him, today dropped dead in the harness at Green street and Putnam avenue, Cambridge. Some commotion was caused when children, out of school for the holiday, crowded around the stricken animal until police cleared a way for his removal.

'MA' HOPS OFF FOR DALLAS

Brownsville, Tex., Dec. 28 (A.P.).—Hoping to make Dallas by nightfall, Mrs. Evangelina L. L. Lindbergh and party took off from Fort Brown Flying Field at 1:04 p. m. today, expecting to make a brief stop at San Antonio.

The big Ford plane carrying Lindy's mother back to her school, room in Detroit landed at the Fort Brown Field at 12:13 p. m. from Mexico City.

The ship was refueled and members of the party had lunch. Mrs. Lindbergh, Mr. and Mrs. Stout and Stanley Copeland, Mexico City, went to the home of Mrs. C. B. More for the noonday meal, while Henry Russell and Harry Brooks, pilots, ate at the field.

"Don't Worry, Mother!" Says Lindy as He Takes Off

Mexico City, Dec. 28 (I.N.S.).—Just before his departure Col. Lindbergh said to his mother:

"Don't worry, mother, everything will be all right."

Mrs. Lindbergh smiled her assurance.

to President Chacon, the latter said:

"Col. Lindbergh, welcome to the soil of Guatemala whose people acclaim you with warm enthusiasm as a herald of peace and progress. I congratulate you most cordially upon the daring flight which you have just made with such brilliant success.

"Permit me in memory thereof and as a homage by my government to your valor and skill to place this medal on your breast. May triumph continue always to attend you in your glorious career as a just tribute of the brave and energetic efforts which have secured for you the sympathy and applause of the world."

The arrival of Colonel Lindbergh over Guatemala was signalled to the whole city by the shrieking of factory whistles.

BARRAGE OF FLOWERS.

Crowds swarmed over La Aurora flying field, many of them carrying armsful of flowers, which they hurled at the flier. Those who were unable to come within throwing distance of the hero of the hour threw their flowers in his general direction.

Newspapers issued this morning appealed for a suspension of all business on Lindbergh's arrival. Most of the shops and factories closed at noon, and those that had not closed at noon shut their doors, and their employes hurried to the aviation field to greet the flier as soon as the factory whistles announced his impending arrival.

President Lazaro Chaucon headed the reception committee that greeted the flier, and officials of the municipality announced their intention of declaring Lindbergh "a son of Guatemala," this being equivalent to conferring the freedom of the city upon the aviator.

Lindbergh Off in Perfect Weather From Mexico City

Valbuena Flying Field, Mexico City, Dec. 28 (A.P.).—Just as dawn lightened the flying field Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh hopped off at 6:35 a. m. today for Guatemala City.

The takeoff was made in almost perfect weather conditions. There was no wind and the slight veil of mist near the ground was not enough to interfere with visibility.

The flier's mother, who had not seen her famous son take off on his New York to Paris, or Washington to Mexico City, flights, was at the field to bid him good-bye.

Lindbergh started the Spirit of St. Louis across the field the moment there was sufficient light to see the ground. He glided into the air after running half the length of the field.

INTO SUNRISE.

The plane described a great curve to the south and then turned east into the sunrise. It turned again toward the south and soon became a black speck against the rosy horizon. Then with the escort of Mexican army planes it was soon lost to sight.

Lindbergh and his mother said farewell to each other privately at the American embassy before coming to the flying field.

The lone eagle's public parting with his mother at Valbuena consisted merely of shaking hands just before he entered the cockpit of the Spirit of St. Louis. Then he kissed his mother's hand and said, "Good-bye, mother."

When Lindbergh came to the field he was dressed in a dark business suit. He put his flying suit over this just before entering the plane.

SAYS GOODBYE.

He shook hands with Dwight W. Morrow, American ambassador; Mrs. Morrow, members of the embassy staff and a group of Mexican army aviators. Smiling he said "Goodbye" to each one of them.

General Calocs, commandant of the flying field, was present as the personal representative of President Calles and said farewell to the flier for the President. Lindbergh bade the President goodbye personally yesterday afternoon.

"We," the thrilling life story of Lindbergh, begins serially in the Boston Evening American, Jan. 9.

Lindy Cost News and Photo Services $5,000,000

New York, Dec. 28 (A.P.).—Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh has been "the most expensive hero the American public ever had," Ray Hall, director of the Pathe News Reel Service, said today.

Mr. Hall estimated that Colonel Lindbergh's aerial exploits since he hopped off for Paris have cost the photograph and news gathering associations $5,000,000. Most of this expense, said Mr. Hall, brought no clear gain to the spenders as the photograph and news associations were under obligations to their clients to get everything of interest about the flier.

GIRL AND BOY SKATERS SAVED

Hugh Doherty of Cambridge street heard the calls and summoned police. The ladder procured by Snyder was laid on the ice and Patrolman Robert J. White of the Winchester department, tying flat on it, allowed the others to push him to the edge of the ice.

White dragged the girl to safety and passed her back to Patrolman John Noonan and Charles Harrold. Then, still braving the crackling ice, he rescued Lewis.

The thrilling rescue was witnessed by scores of motorists who were passing the lakes. The rescued couple were suffering from the effects of immersion and cold and were taken to Winchester Hospital in an ambulance which had been dispatched to the scene.

The two students started out for their skate shortly after daylight, and it was only 7 o'clock when they fell through the ice about 100 feet off the clubhouse float.

R. I. CHIEF AND 12 INDICTED

Warren, R. I., Dec. 28.—Police Chief James Cronin and 11 other officials and former officials of this town and a Taunton man were indicted by the grand jury today on charges of accepting a bribe, conspiracy and gambling.

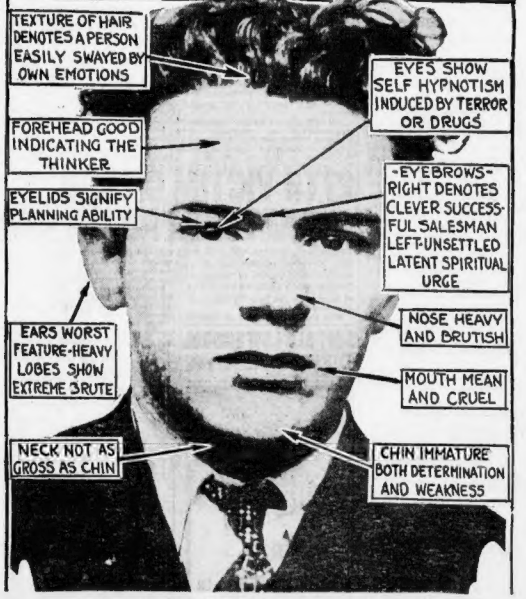
The action followed gambling raids in the town under the order of the Attorney General, Charles P. Sisson, acting over the heads of the local police department.

Those indicted and the charges include:

Chief Cronin, charged with accepting a bribe; Edward Ballaire, town clerk, conspiracy and accepting a bribe; Francis J. Higgins, chairman of the school committee, conspiracy; John Fielding, treasurer of the Republican town committee, conspiracy; Donat P. Fortier, former State representative, conspiracy.

Edward J. Menard of Taunton was indicted on two counts of bribery and on a charge of conspiracy to allow gambling machines to be placed in Warren. Capiases were issued for all those indicted.

HUB EXPERT "READS" HICKMAN



CONFLICTING "URGES" NOTED IN SLAYER

Human abilities and gross animal passions all are inextricably mingled in the nature of William Edward Hickman, confessed slayer of little Marian Parker, according to Hortense Dudley Hay, past president of the New Thought Forum who has "read" his face for the Boston Evening American. She declares the combination of brows, eyes and lids in Hickman's face indicate a character to whom the artistry, rather than the brutality of crime makes appeal.

BOY SAYS HE'S LYNN FIREBUG

A 16-year-old boy, now an inmate of the Shirley Industrial School, confessed today, according to Lynn police, to setting three Lynn fires.

One of the fires, on December 4, was in the Tracy School. The other two, a few weeks earlier, were in lodging houses and succeeded in driving out a total of 120 lodgers.

The boy, Wallace Le Blanc, who formerly lived in Western avenue, where one of the fires occurred, had since been arrested and convicted of larceny.

STATE ACTS TO ENFORCE DOG EDICT IN LYNN

The State today took steps to put into effect a 90-day dog restraining order in Lynn, where Mayor Ralph S. Bower had refused to issue a voluntary order, and threatened to arrest any outsiders entering that city for the purpose of shooting or interfering with dogs.

Lynn is the only community out of 71 asked to restrain dogs beginning December 15 that refused.

State Director of Animal Industry Frank B. Cummings, on the advice of Attorney-General Arthur K. Reading, today went before the Governor's Council and had approved changes considered necessary in the regulations to make his order, when issued, legal.

The change will require the posting of the amendment in conspicuous places and the filing of copies with the city clerk.

Director Cummings said that copies of the amended order will be sent out immediately to the various inspectors for publishing and posting.

GRID GAME FREES MAN ACCUSED IN ROBBERY

Three friends of Dominic Barbarra, No. 82 Green street, West End, father of five children, came into court today and by testifying that they were with Barbarra attending the Harvard-Brown football game on November 12, when the home of Frank Gardino, No. 21 Allen street, was broken into, saved him from being found guilty on a charge of breaking and entering. A woman had taken the stand and told Judge Parmenter she was positive she saw Barbarra carrying clothes from the Gardino home on the day the place was robbed. The time of the break was placed at 2 o'clock in the afternoon. Barbarra's friends proved conclusively that they were with him at the Stadium at that hour. He was found not guilty.

HUSBAND IS HELD FOR ATTACK

While a crowd of 500 milled around the home of Mr. and Mrs. Jay Barry of Beach street, Revere, the form of Mrs. Barry, clad in a bathrobe, came hurtling out a second floor window to the ground.

She was thrown out by her husband, she told police.

The twenty-eight-year-old wife, an attractive brunette, was involved in a family row, the cause for which neither she nor her husband would divulge.

Threats from the crowd greeted the young husband as he emerged from the house and forced the wife back into a lower-story window, before he himself also disappeared.

The timely arrival of police in response to a riot call prevented mob violence, even after Inspector John Starkey and Patrolmen Driscoll and McKinley arrived.

A three-year-old daughter of the couple, oblivious to the family storm, danced to phonograph music in the Barry flat while the excitement was going on. She continued despite the sobs of her mother and the irate tone of her father's voice.

Police, after questioning the couple, arrested Barry and charged him with assault and battery. Mrs. Barry, though apparently suffering from her experience, refused services of a physician or hospital treatment.

TROLLEY LOAD OF PASSENGERS JUST ESCAPES

A trolley car load of passengers narrowly escaped disaster today when a runaway railroad coach crashed through the fence of the New Haven yards on to Southampton street, felled an electric light pole, tearing down trolley wires and coming to a halt across the inbound Elevated tracks.

The inbound trolley, loaded with early morning commuters, passed a fraction of a second before the heavy pole was sent crashing to the ground and by an equally fortunate chance no pedestrians or automobiles were passing.

Emergency crews from the Elevated, Edison and New Haven companies were on hand within a few minutes, and while police threw a line around the live wires, repaired the damage with a resultant delay of thirty-five minutes.

The accident occurred at 7:10 as a crew of railroad employes was backing a train into the storage yard adjoining the New Haven train yard on Southampton street.

WRONG HOUSE LANDS HIM IN RIGHT CELL

Elbert Cales was in the wrong house.

He was in the wrong street.

He wasn't even in the right town.

And his pleasure car in which he said he had been riding around all night, drunk, turned out to be a half-ton truck.

So Elbert, as a result of his starting to undress in an indignant woman's bedroom at Lynn, is in the Lynn cooler now, sleeping, while charges of drunkenness and driving while drunk are lodged against him.

It was a bit after the witching hour when Mrs. Emerson L. Shaw heard a husky voice trill "Daddy, Daddy."

She lifted her head from the pillow, snapped on the light, gasped at sight of a disheveled stranger peeling off his shirt and blinking in the glare, and then woke her husband.

While Shaw was coming up out of the depths of slumber, the stranger mumbled his apologies, stumbled out of the room and vanished. Shaw telephoned the police.

Patrolman Joseph Coyne found the disheveled visitor sitting in the dining room with his head resting in a cup of coffee. He was asleep.

To the policeman he said he was Elbert Cales of Chestnut street, Danvers, and that he was in the home of his aunt in Winthrop. Much to his surprise he learned that he was neither in Saugus nor Winthrop, but was in Lynn.

Then he told about coming down from Vermont in his pleasure car with a friend, eating in Boston, consuming five pints of liquor and driving around in the car the best part of the night.

After Cales' derby was found in one place, his coat in another, his shoes at two points and his jacket half way up the stairs, he was ushered into the chill street in a hunt for his "automobile."

Half a mile away, the machine was found. It was a half-ton truck.

NEW CLUES FOLLOWED IN HUNT FOR MISSING GRAYSON PLANE

DESTROYERS SEARCH SEAS IN VAIN QUEST FOR FLIERS

published here Sunday or Monday he did not learn until today that the plane never reached Harbor Grace. Thereupon he telephoned his information to the newspapers.

Following Rev. Bishop's statement, several other residents of Pouch Cove reported that they had heard an airplane passing over that place Sunday morning, but the weather was so foggy the plane could not be identified.

They believe it might have been Mrs. Grayson's missing craft.

Navy Hunts Seas

The Pouch Cove rumors came on the heels of a story that mysterious radio messages from a plane believed to be the missing Dawn had been picked up Monday by a wireless operator at Heart's Content, a small community near Harbor Grace, the Dawn's proposed destination.

U. S. destroyers searching the waters off Sable Island for a trace of the lost plane had failed to find any signs of the craft up until late this morning. The destroyers scouring the northern seas are Sturtevant, Three coast guard boats, the Shawmut, Mohegan and Downes, also are aiding in this hunt.

Throughout the night lookouts on the destroyers searched the blackened seas for a possible flare or flashlight signal, recalling the discovery of the Locatelli plane off Greenland at night in 1924, when signalmen aboard the cruiser Richmond sighted their flashlight eight miles away.

To Extend Search

Once during the night the sudden appearance of red and green lights in the sky gave rise to hopes of the lookout men, but the lights were eventually put down as being a reflection of the northern lights in the clear, cold sky.

The Canadian Government today was asked to send an air squadron out to search the wilderness around Harbor Grace where the mystery messages indicate the Dawn may have landed. The Boston Navy Yard was also asked to order the destroyers now off Sable Island to extend their quest along the Northern Coast of Newfoundland in the belief that the plane, if it landed in the sea, may have drifted into isolated waters.

The belief that the plane came down on land in the neighboring wilds of Harbor Grace was based on the radio calls heard by the operator at Heart's Content.

This operator reported to the Western Union office at St. John's that on Monday he had picked up a message signed either "WHU" or "WVU."

Heart's Content is on Trinity Bay opposite from Harbor Grace. The Dawn's own radio call was "WMU."

The text of the report given out by the St. John's Western Union office in regard to the Heart's Content calls said:

"One of our operators, Billyard, told me this morning he picked up a call signed 'W,' next letter unreadable, but sounding like 'H' or 'F.' Then the letter 'U.' This call was 'Where are we? Can you locate us?' and was signed as I said. It was repeated every three or four minutes for nearly half an hour and sounded very loud on the set. Don't know if it might be Dawn or not. If so, she must have been very close as signals were loudest he ever heard."

'Good Luck Star' Failed Mrs. Grayson, Father Fears

Muncie, Ind., Dec. 28.—The "Good Luck Star" that has hovered above Mrs. Frances Wilson Grayson, missing flier, at last has failed her, A. J. Wilson, Muncie grocer and her father, believed today.

"Frances always was an adventurous girl continually up to perilous stunts from the time she was a mere child," he recalled. "But always there was what she called her 'good luck star' to save her from serious trouble. But now I'm afraid that star has vanished."

Mr. Wilson frankly despairs of his daughter's life.

"When her airplane, the Dawn, was not found yesterday, after a reported radio message from Sable Island, I gave up all hope," he said.

Los Angeles Back After 24,000-Square-Mile Search

Lakehurst, N. J., Dec. 28 (A.P.)—The naval dirigible Los Angeles returned to her hangar today after a 31-hour cruise, during which 24,000 square miles of ocean was scanned in a vain search for the missing amphibian plane Dawn.

Lieutenant-Commander C. E. Rosendahl declared the search very satisfactory and very complete, and said that he did not contemplate any further search with the ship.

"The Los Angeles covered 1,245 nautical miles on her flight," he said, "and he could see at all times 20 miles on either side of the ship.

"The visibility was very good, and if any flares or rockets had been set off in that area they would have been seen."

The ship took off from the training station here at 5 o'clock Monday night and cruised as far as Emerald Bank, about 120 miles from Sable Island, where the Canadian government wireless station reported hearing a radio call for assistance and which it was thought might have been sent by the Dawn. The ship returned to her hangar shortly after 1 o'clock this morning.

Commander Rosendahl said many ships were sighted in the area covered, including the two navy destroyers, also engaged in a hunt for the Dawn. The commander expressed the opinion that if the Dawn had struck the water at night it was wrecked and sunk.

Wilbur Warns Fliers to Tell Navy of Plans

Washington, Dec. 28.—Searches by the navy for lost ocean fliers in future will depend on circumstances and on the amount of information furnished the navy department by aviators before they leave.

Secretary Wilbur, in outlining this policy, said that search for the Grayson plane was being conducted as part of the naval program to give aid to any ship of any kind that was in trouble.

"If those making such flights in the future would advise the department of their course, the condition and range of their radio and other equipment useful in emergency, search in case of accident would be facilitated," he said.

The navy has been handicapped in its search for the Grayson plane, because the plotted course had not been known and the only information had come from press dispatches.

Rescue Committee Sees Little Hope in New "Messages"

New York, Dec. 28 (I.N.S.)—Little hope that the message reported picked up Monday by an operator at Hearts Content, N. F., meant that the crew of the Grayson plane were still safe was held today by members of the "Grayson rescue committee" and fliers familiar with the territory about Newfoundland and Sable Island.

TEXAS RANGERS USE PLANE IN BATTLE ON ROBBERS

Graham, Tex., Dec. 28 (A. P.)—Texas Rangers, who have refused to entirely abandon cow ponies to get "the law" to isolated places, today had an airplane equipped with machine guns to lend power in an attack on a bandit lair. Ranger Captain Tom Hickman ordered the plane when deputies reported they had cornered two bandits of a gang of five who raided a bank at Cisco Friday under leadership of a "Santa Claus robber." One of the bandits died of wounds a short time after the robbery, while another was wounded and captured late yesterday.

Traffic Officer 'Twits' Sparrows in Rescue

The twittering side of Patrolman Edward J. McGillicuddy was revealed at its best today when he saved an English starling from a flock of low-brow sparrows.

Few of McGillicuddy's fellow-cops knew he could twitter. In fact, he didn't know it himself, but now he is all atwitter.

Big Eddie—they call him that—was directing traffic at Adams street and Dorchester avenue, Dorchester, watching warily for lady drivers of the type that drove into the same traffic stand a few days ago, when a commotion was heard and an English starling whirled down for a forced landing with thirty or forty sparrows in pursuit.

Hard-pressed, the starling took off again in the faces and beaks of his enemies, but the numbers were too great and he zoomed and banked and yoicked over desperately seeking refuge.

Then he saw Big Eddie—and swooped into the refuge of the traffic cop's helmet.

With his 200 pounds of bulk Big Eddie spread out like a tent over the fugitive and twittered sharply and rebukingly at the sparrows.

The sparrows, much chagrined and cresfallen, flew away and McGillicuddy took his guest to the station and fed it.

$18,000 FIRE IN LAWRENCE

Lawrence, Dec. 28.—Fire caused $18,000 damage today in the Oppenheim Block, Essex street, less than a half-hour after business was suspended for the regular Wednesday half-holiday. The blaze was discovered in the Oppenheim clothing store at No. 495 Essex street, by a passerby. Fire Chief Michael McPhee said it started in a salesroom in the rear of the street floor.

A branch of the Traveler Shoe Stores on one side and the S. S. Kresge 5 and 10 cent store on the other sustained heavy smoke and water damage. All employes had left the block before the fire broke out.

Says Teachers Prefer 'Ideals to High Pay'

"The girl who chooses teaching for her profession does not usually have salary in her mind," observed Miss Florence Murphy of Dorchester one of 250 candidates who wrote examinations for teaching positions in the Boston public schools at Teachers' College today.

"Teaching is a profession that depends on ideals for success and unless one really wants to help others she does not stay in the profession long. She gives of oneself freely in this work, but how satisfying most of us find that giving."

Her thought was echoed by Miss Ruth McLean, who took the examination for kindergarten work, "because I love little children and find so much joy in the music and games of the kindergarten work."

One thousand young people with ideals of service will take these examinations before next Saturday night, when the four-day session closes, the examiners estimated.

Higher standards of requirements of certain candidates will go into effect the first of the year and this accounts for the unusually large mid-year enrollment for these examinations.

REFUSES TO ORDER ARREST OF SPRINGFIELD MAN

Palmer, Dec. 28.—Mrs. Sadie Bennett, wife of Fred C. Bennett, proprietor of the Wales Hotel in Wales, was today denied a warrant charging Nathaniel F. Borden, wealthy Springfield real estate dealer, with a serious offense. Bennett and wife were arraigned yesterday when Borden swore affidavits to extort $20,000 from him.

CLAMPS LID ON NEW YEAR'S EVE

Worcester, Dec. 28 (A.P.)—All New Year's eve celebrations Saturday night in this city are to be stopped before midnight, as are all Saturday night parties, according to Deputy Police Chief Foley. And he also declared no dancing will be allowed Sunday night, continuing into Monday morning. He said further he will look into the matter of theatrical performances scheduled for Sunday night, and will decide in a few days on these forms of entertainment.

Announcing THE

BOSTON

THIS city's great trading area makes it America's best retail market and third greatest source of income taxes. In the New England Building, Inc., Boston will have a monumental landmark surpassing all existing buildings in the world in total area of floor space.

The above illustration shows The New England Building, Inc., the largest building in the world, as it will appear when completed —subject to requisite modifications.

No. 1 of a series of Messages to the public of New England

FOR the people of New England . . . . . A New and Greater Department Store!

Particularly to those who recall their own personal experiences in the crushing throngs that surge about in the shopping streets and stores of Boston—this announcement brings important news.

A new and greater department store, dedicated to the service and convenience of the New England public! A complete department store so splendid and spacious in its surroundings that those who have been planning it could set out deliberately to profit by and surpass the achievements of all the famous department-store enterprises in America!

In the Heart of Boston

This New England department store will be the principal public service feature of the largest building in the world.

And this, the world's largest building, will be the New England Building, Inc., in Boston, located in the heart of the Park Square district and directly connected with the Arlington and Berkeley street stations of the Boylston street subway.

Near the Hotel Statler

The New England Building, Inc., will occupy the block bounded by St. James avenue, Berkeley and Stuart streets, opposite the Park Square building and next door to the new Statler Hotel. Together with the New England Department Store, Inc., it is an enterprise which will represent an investment of approximately twenty million dollars.

Look again at the architect's drawing of the building. Modern American architecture at its best—magnificent arrangement of tremendous masses, terraced and combined so that their slim vertical lines rise to a climax of monumental beauty in the central tower topped with a flagstaff. Yet, because of the great area of the site, the cubic contents of the building will be less than that now authorized by building-height regulations.

Expands High-value Shopping District

Here is the climax of the movement begun by the success of the Paine Furniture Company in Park Square —the first major expansion of the downtown big-store retail shopping district since the development of Tremont street as a shopping center began more than a generation ago. It means the first great step to relieve costly congestion that for years has been choking traffic, penalizing the old established merchants, and keeping thousands of customers away from downtown stores, which have nevertheless prospered increasingly despite these handicaps.

Represents the New Era

This new store represents the inevitable response of big business to the increasing pressure of population, traffic and public demand for less wasteful and more convenient service. It represents the New Era which steady growth and changing times have brought to Metropolitan Boston and New England. It will also represent the modern manner of conducting big business enterprises in the service of the public. It is estimated that 25,000 New England families will share in its ownership, profits, and special privileges.

Metropolitan Boston has been growing at the rate of 25,000 per year in population—growing even faster in part-time purchasing population. Hotel capacity has been doubled. Transportation, garage and entertainment facilities have been greatly increased. But for years there has been no important expansion of Boston's department store shopping facilities until now.

Basement Parking Space

The New England Department Store, Inc., will render extraordinary service in shopping conveniences. It will be located where streets are wider, where street parking space is more ample and where traffic moves freely but in greater volume than is possible further down town.

It will provide luxurious club quarters for men and women and two vast sub-basement parking spaces capable of accommodating 3,000 to 5,000 automobiles per day for the occupants and patrons of the building. The Motor Mart, world's largest garage, and others nearby, will provide additional space for thousands of cars.

Ten Acres on Six Floors

The New England Department Store, Inc., will occupy more than ten acres of floor space on the first five floors and first basement, yet there will be space enough for twenty additional specialty shops on the street floor. The rest of the building above the fifth floor will be devoted to offices and headquarters of New England industries for sales and display.

A large exhibition hall will be one of the features of the building. Here will be maintained, open to the public, a permanent New England industrial exhibition representing the 20,000 New England industries which last year manufactured four times as many billion dollars worth of products as all New England produced twenty years ago.

All this—this tremendous investment in civic development and shopping convenience—this expansion of Boston's retail shopping district—this monumental headquarters for New England industries—is Boston's greatest New Year gift to New England.

Marshall Field Executive in Charge

The New England Department Store, Inc., has already secured the services of some of the leading department store executives in the country. In charge of all this work of organization and preparation is Mr. Elbridge L. Howe, a New Englander who has served America's largest shopping public for ten years in positions of increasing importance as Sales Manager, Executive Manager, and latterly Merchandise Manager of the Marshall Field & Company department store in Chicago. Former chief of the National Dry Goods Association, and organizer of the Retail Stores Division in the Food Administration under Mr. Hoover's war-time regime, he comes back to New England one of the best known retail store authorities in the country.

Two Years' Work—The Directors

Plans, business surveys and financing arrangements for this building have been under way for more than two years. It has the combined sponsorship and backing of successful business leaders in the six New England States. The New England Department Store, Inc., is proud to present itself today to the public with this board of directors.

With these men thousands of New England residents will be invited to share in the New England Department Store, Inc., as part-owners as well as customers—part-owners in the land, building and department store enterprise. If you would know more about this great New England enterprise watch the newspapers for forthcoming announcements, write to us at once for particulars, or call in person at our office. MAY REJECT OIL PLAN IN MEXICO

Mexico City, Dec. 28 (I.N.S.)—Representatives of foreign companies operating in Mexico stated today they would accept amendments to the petroleum bill passed last night by the Chamber of Deputies if the concession affirming the oil companies' rights as they existed before article 27 of the new constitution became effective.

If, however, the commission held by the government to be the basis of new petroleum bills abrogating the old rights existed before the petroleum law came effective, the oil companies will balk at acceptance. In this case, American petroleum companies may seek intercession by the United States State Department.

The amendments were proposed by President Calles and were adopted by the chamber without debate. They provide for confirmation of pre-constitutional oil rights through concessions in perpetuity.

Employes to Quit Work and Dance Twice Daily

Springfield, Dec. 28.—Dancing today became a part of the daily routine at the plant of the Nare Valley Manufacturing Company.

Officials inaugurated two recreation periods of 12 minutes each, morning and afternoon, during which employes are to dance to the music of victrolas.

Officials estimate that they will lose 108 production hours of labor, but expect employes will general sufficient energy through he relaxation to speed up production and make the system profitable.

ESCAPE IN 70-FOOT PLUNGE

Greenfield, Dec. 28 (A.P.)—Daniel Miller of Boston and Joseph F. Hagan of Bennington, Vt., were driving toward Shelburne Falls this morning in a sedan when their car skidded on the Mohawk Trail, two miles west of this town and plunged down a 70-foot bank. Turning over several times, the car landed right side up and the two men escaped serious injury. At the Franklin County Hospital they were treated for bruises and shock. This is the second accident of this kind at this point on the Trail within two weeks.

Billion in Stocks and Bonds for Charity

New York, Dec. 28 (A.P.)—American philanthropic foundations have at least a billion dollars of aggregate funds, invested for the most part in stocks and bonds, the Magazine of Wall Street says today.

Complete investment holdings of three of the richest foundations in America are presented in the article. These are the Rockefeller Foundation, the Carnegie Corporation of New York and the General Education Board, whose financial aspects hitherto have been a closed book to investors.

Stocks are the mainstay of the Rockefeller Foundation, holdings of which are estimated at $155,000,000. The Carnegie Corporation places most of its investments in bonds, most of which total approximately $154,000,000.

These, together with investments by other large institutions, including the Duke endowment of Duke University, the Kresge Foundation, the $40,000,000 Hershey Fund and a score of lesser foundations, are responsible in great degree, the article asserts, for prevailing high bond prices.

As institutions not rivaling business, it is pointed out, these foundations buy bonds to hold and act as conserving factors in the market.

HUB INVITED TO REVERE FOR NEW YEAR'S

Mayor Walsh has granted permits for a dancing party at the beach, lasting until 4 a. m. Monday, and a midnight show at a theatre.

"People can observe the New Year and still be orderly, and for those who can't I have a very efficient police force," said Mayor Walsh. "Any riff-raff will be taken care of.

"This is a progressive age and there is no reason why we shouldn't have a little enjoyment in it. I always used to stay up all night New Year's, and I see no reason why people should not do it now if they wish. There are too many blue laws.

"After midnight, Sunday night, Revere will be wide open.

MAY "EAT" IN HUB.

"I wish everyone a happy New Year."

While Mayor Walsh was seizing opportunity by the forelock, Boston hotel men were pointing out that while the law requires all entertainment and dancing to cease at midnight Saturday, there is no rule preventing patrons from remaining to eat and chatter.

George Clark, secretary of the Boston Hotel Men's Association, said:

"There is no feeling of resentment on the part of any of the officials of Boston hotels against city officials of Boston because the hotels must shut down at midnight. Hotel officials are showing entire willingness to co-operate with city officials in obeying the law. It is not for hotel men to protest against the law. I think every New Englander who celebrates on New Year's Eve is willing to quit dancing shortly before midnight on Saturday, knowing that the Sabbath begins in a few minutes.

"Reservations are being made freely at all the hotels by persons who know of the early closing law, and that all forms of entertainment and dancing will cease shortly before midnight.

The hotel men also denied that they had protested against the early closing order, adding that their plans were made four or five weeks ago and are being carried out as originally drafted.

City Censor Casey also denied reports that the hotel men were besieging him to lift the ban, declaring that the matter did not come under his jurisdiction at all, but under that of the Licensing Board.

LITTLE PROTEST.

Louis Epple, secretary of the Licensing Board, stated that notification of the early closing regulations had been sent to hotel, night club and cafe proprietors a long time ago, and he had received no considered protest since.

Samuel Blackwood, associate manager of the Copley-Plaza, who expressed the attitude of a number of hotel men, said:

"The management of this hotel has no resentment against officials because of the early closing order. We are going ahead with the plans we made a month ago and have no intention of doing anything different than closing shortly before midnight Saturday.

"We will permit patrons to remain as long as they wish, however, although all music and entertainment will cease. We believe some of our patrons will remain as late as two o'clock, eating and chatting.

"The Boston Hotel Men's Association held a meeting four or five weeks ago, at which all agreed to hold their celebrations in this way. As far as I know there has been no resentment on the part of hotel men against city officials. The only kick will probably be made by the night clubs, who, no doubt, would like to hold parties on both Saturday and Sunday nights.

ADVANCE PLANS.

"I have not protested to City Censor Casey or anybody else and have no intention of so doing.

"We made our plans in advance, and do not expect as many people as last year. For one thing there are some 20 or 30 more places for them to go this year, and, of course, the early closing will keep many away. I don't know of any hotel that expects as much business as last year."

City Censor Casey pointed out that he had no jurisdiction over the hotels, but only theatres and other places of amusement, and that he had heard no protests from hotel men.

Secretary Epple said notification was sent out some time ago that every hotel, club, cafe and place where entertainment and dancing takes place must cease their activities at midnight, and that no licenses had been granted for opening at midnight Sunday night. He said he had received a few queries as to whether or not the time limit could be extended, but no considered protests.

U. S. EFFORTS BRING PEACE IN NICARAGUA

Washington, Dec. 28.—Order and constitutional government in Nicaragua have been restored under American auspices, and there is every reason to believe that the coming presidential contest will be carried on without violence.

Such is the situation today as evidenced by reports reaching Washington through official and diplomatic channels.

Particular satisfaction is found in the record of the United States in Nicaragua by reason of the fact that satisfactory results were obtained in the face of Mexican efforts to set up in the Central American republic a regime distinctly hostile to Washington.

The guns and munitions shipped from Mexico to Nicaragua in the Fall of last year were able to postpone the restoration of order in the revolutionary country, but the firm stand taken by President Coolidge prevented the success of Mexico's program.

The President set forth the situation of a year ago in his special message to Congress of January 10, last, saying:

"As a matter of fact, I have the most conclusive evidence that arms and munitions in large quantities have been on several occasions since August 1, 1926, shipped to the revolutionists in Nicaragua.

"Boats carrying these munitions have been fitted out in Mexican ports, and some of the munitions bear evidence of having come from to the Mexican government

"It also appears that the ships were fitted out with the full knowledge of and, in some cases, with the encouragement of Mexican officials and were in one instance, at least, commanded by a Mexican naval reserve officer."

CHARGES PROVED.

The Mexican government's denial of any participation in the Nicaraguan revolution were met by evidence uncovered by officers of the navy and marine corps on duty in the Central American region. When Rear Admiral Latimer established the neutral zones at Puerto Cabezas and Rio Grande Bar, he found there between 200,000 and 350,000 rounds of ammunition. Under the circumstances, he felt compelled to permit the revolutionary forces to take these munitions out of the zone. But, reporting his action to Washington, the admiral advised officials here that cartridge boxes in the two munitions dumps bore the markings of Mexican national arsenals.

ARMS FROM MEXICO.

At the White House, it was stated on behalf of the President that there seemed to be no doubt that arms had been shipped from Mexico to Nicaragua. Senator Bingham of Connecticut, a staunch supporter of the administration, asserted in a speech that the State Department also was in possession of a message from Mexico to Dr. Sacasa, leader of the Nicaraguan revolutionary movement.

The fact that Mexico was taking such an active part in the attempt to set up a revolutionary government in Nicaragua was accepted here as placing the entire situation there in a different light.

Under such circumstances, the Coolidge administration felt justified in taking vigorous steps to restore order in the troubled areas. Henry L. Stimson, former secretary of war, was sent to Nicaragua and insisted that the warring factions surrender their arms. Rifles received from the revolutionary elements bore every evidence of having originated in Mexico.

Although disgruntled elements continued to oppose the American attempt at pacification, the great bulk of the revolutionary forces accepted with good grace the effort of the United States to bring about peace. As matters stand today, order has been restored practically throughout the republic, and efficient detachments of marines and native constabulary are hunting down the bandit elements which still survive in a few isolated sections.

Tops Dry Lists

IS REAPPOINTED

Capt. George A. Parker of Boston, reappointed today as prohibition administrator for New England. Under civil servile regulations he topped all eligibles, and is considered by Commissioner Doran as one of the most efficient dry chiefs in the service.

$10,000 MAN QUITS MAYOR OF REVERE

Declaring that he is a $10,000 man and will not work for nothing, J. Malcolm Macauley, Boston & Maine switchman, recently appointed secretary to Mayor Walsh of Revere, tendered his resignation today.

Macauley, who lives on Park avenue, Revere, and has been an investigator for Mayor Walsh, was appointed secretary last Tuesday when J. Shepard Welman, who had the job three years, was suspended for being tardy, the suspension to last until January 1 without pay.

Macauley said he had no trouble with Mayor Walsh, but that the mayor did not pay enough to the job.

The mayor accepted the resignation, then appointed his 18-year-old daughter Eileen, a student at a business college, as his secretary. Ask if he would reinstate Welman the first of the year, Mayor Walsh hesitated and said:

"I don't know. I think there is a chance to save $2,200 a year in this position," the $2,200 being the amount received by Welman.

PARKER IS DRY CHIEF AGAIN

tary record with his National Guard enlistment in 1906, he rose through the ranks to captain in the 101st Field Artillery.

When the State Constabulary was organized, Captain Parker was designated its active head by Commissioner of Public Safety Alfred E. Foote. He accepted the administrator appointment in 1925 after Foote had declined.

WORK RESUMED ON RAISING OF S4

Work of raising the sunken submarine S4, with its still, silent cargo of forty dead off Provincetown, was resumed today, according to a radio dispatch received at the Boston Navy Yard.

The message, from Admiral Brumby, director of operations, said:

"Falcon moored over S4 at 8 o'clock. Diving began at 8. To continue work on tunnel at frame 49 under battery locker. Weather fair, partly overcast; air temperature 38. Moderate northwest wind. Sea fairly smooth, but Falcon had to move headed northwestward. Made arrangements for anchoring lighter United States in inner harbor until arrivals later today."

"FATTY" ARBUCKLE IS ATTACHED BY EX-WIFE

New York, Dec. 28 A. P.).—Roscoe "Fatty" Arbuckle, former film star, was served today with a warrant of attachment on his possessions here, by counsel for his former wife, Minta Durfee. Service was made at a Brooklyn theatre where Arbuckle is appearing.

An affidavit filed by Miss Durfee said Arbuckle agreed in August, 1924, to pay her 15 per cent. of his gross earnings for a year and 20 per cent. thereafter as long as she remained unwed. He is in arrears in these payments, she alleged.

AMERICAN LOANS ABROAD $2,000,000,000 IN 1927

New York, Dec. 28 (A.P.).—American capital in 1927 loaned abroad a total of $2,000,193,500, establishing a record for one year, Max Winkler, vice-president of Bertron, Griscom & Co., said today.

This figure, he said, showed an increase of about 13 per cent. over 1926 and brought our total investments abroad to $14,500,000,000. The investments this year were more than 450 per cent. over 1913.

Europe headed the list with $885,310,300 and Canada with $475,453,200 was second.

In addition to her portion, Princess Ileana received $30,000 for wedding gifts."

Reviewing reports from postmasters at all large cities, the postmaster-general said this year's business undoubtedly had been the largest ever handled.

RUSSIANS BURNED CANTON; CHINESE SO NOTIFY U. S.

Canton, Dec. 28 (A.P.).—A note stating that the Russians were responsible for the recent Communist outbreak here and the burning of the city, was handed by the Chinese authorities now in control to Jay C. Houston, American Consul, and other foreign consulates. Arms, flags and marked military maps proved beyond a doubt that the Soviet consulate was the headquarters of the Communists. It was stated the Russians had extensive plans for bringing in a peasant army from the surrounding districts, where Russian military advisers had been organizing and drilling the peasantry for two or three years. The revolt of these peasants is greatly feared

Prof. Munro Sees Politics in U. S. as "Bigamist"

Washington, Dec. 28 (I.N.S.)—Astonishingly little progress has been made by the United States in science of government, Professor William B. Munro of Harvard asserted today before the American Political Association.

"Side by side, in a great city like Chicago, you can find at this moment much of the best in industrial technique and some of the worst municipal government on earth," Munro declared.

"Politics, to become a science, should first of all obtain a decree of divorce from the philosophers, lawyers and psychologists, with whom it long has been in a state of polygamous companionate marriage, to the detriment of its own quest for truth.

AIRPLANES SEARCHING FOR MISSING HUNTERS

Glenece, Ill., Dec. 28 (I.N.S.)—Two airplanes, a fleet of Coast Guard boats, police and 100 Boy Scouts were searching the snow-jammed coast of Lake Michigan today for two duck hunters who have been missing since Monday morning.

They are Alexander Maitland, 25, and Robert Case, 14 both members of wealthy North Shore families. Maitland was a bridegroom of less than a year. The young hunters left early Monday without breakfast; saying they would be back by 9 o'clock. It is believed they fell through thin ice or went town in a small boat.

SCIENCE AIMS TO MAKE EVERY HOME HAPPY

By ROBERT S. THORNBURGH, International News Correspondent.

Washington, Dec. 28.—Humanistic science is going to try to banish unhappiness from the home. The first step is a broad research aimed at revealing social and psychological causes underlying the nagging, disagreeable and quarrelsome habits of both men and women.

"Then effective education and consultation dealing with all such problems will make possible maximum happiness in family life," Benjamin R. Andrews, of Columbia University, told the annual gathering of the American Sociological Society here today.

NEED NEW TECHNIQUE.

In a discussion of the manifold perplexities that wreck marriage, drive juveniles to delinquency and crime, and disrupt homes, Andrews prophesied that for the family with children home-making will remain as a full-time vocation.

Calling attention to the modification of the family's economic situation and customary activities as a result of industrial society, with its specialization in productive functions, Andrews said:

"As housework is industrialized, the home is personalized.

"Rising standards of living require new techniques.

FIVE HOURS FOR BABY.

"The average measured time for the care of a baby by an intelligent mother is now five hours."

Science was described as giving "a fore view of the home education of the infant and preschool child, and constructive companionship of mother and school child, looking not toward prolonged dependence of child on mother, but prolonged comradeship and understanding as the child works his way toward a fully developed and thoroughly competent personality."

The advancing housewife usually contributes as much by her skill as does her husband by his money, according to Andrews.

FIND CAUSES OF FRICTION.

"Family friction in economic matters will be less common when research reveals social and psychological causes underlying family unhappiness," Andrews declared.

Tracing the development of the human machine from that period when the infant finds that its mother may be dominated by a whine or scream, W. I. Thomas, president of the American Sociological Society, showed that early formation of habits may result in undesirable life-long habits.

Thomas outlined some of the causative factors in delinquency such as early sex experience, bad companionship, school dissatisfaction, mental deficiency, premature puberty, psychopathic personality, mental conflict and motion picture. To the last was attributed but one per cent. of delinquency.

FIVE CHILDREN AND MAN MAROONED ON ISLAND

Manchester, N. H., Dec. 28 (A.P.).—Five children and a man were marooned on a Piscataquog river island here this morning for more than an hour.

Cut off from the mainland by the full action of the water energy of the New Hampshire Public Service Company at the Kelley's Falls station, it was not until the police, firemen and plant workmen had been summoned that they were rescued. They had gone to the island to cut wood.

HUB SMART SET IS EAGERLY AWAITING OPENING OF OPERA, SAYS BETTY ALDEN

Remember Regretfully the Days When Boston Maintained Its Own Company and Did Not Depend on Visit of Outside Troupe

SWIFTLY REVOLVES THE SOCIAL CYCLE! CHRISTMAS scarce has come and gone, its rush and bustle relegated to the background for another twelvemonth, and now the New Year is in the offing. The little newcomer must be started off on his short life span with mirth and feasting, a hilarious sendoff to the youngster so soon with us. But even Christmas and New Year are not of paramount importance in the considerations of the socially elect, those moneyed aristocrats without whom the fashionable wheels would lack reason to whir so brilliantly. On their horizon looms "The Opera." It occupies the high place of importance, not to be ousted therefrom by wedding or ball, journey or joust.

WITHOUT DOUBT IT'S THE "OPERA" THAT IS CLIMAX of the Winter, the very zenith of things social. To its short two weeks the entire social scheme rises crescendo-like. Supergorgeously does it flush over the social heavens, an aurora for its color and dazzle and scintillation. Briefly it flashes and then is gone. And then, too, it's the fashionable. The season is over. Away they dash, East, South, North, West, over the horizon to bask in the sun in a favorite playground. How differently was all this, in Boston, once upon a time, when grand opera occupied a considerable portion of the Winter season.

MUSICALLY INCLINED ARISTOCRATS, BOSTONIANS WITH memories covering a decade or more, well remember these past glories when operatically Boston took second place to none, not even the Metropolitan. The good old days, now gone into the limbo of the past, when the Upper Crust had its own opera company to sing in its own opera house! Now the exalted ones, with purses deep and wide and baring musical consciences that demand the best, do their opera gorgeously, as in the olden days, but in utmost concentration. Its whole season is a scant twelve days and evenings. Not thus is the opera scheme arranged for Gotham

VERY RICHLY ENDOWED IS THE BIG CITY, OPERATICALLY. Tried and true and without a peer is its very own Metropolitan, of course. And now it rejoices in a newcomer, the American Opera Company, no less, that delighted North Shore audiences last Summer at Stillington Hall, and now seeks a place in the operatic sun as that orb shines in Gotham. Social celebrities whose halos give off a glow quite resplendent are on the list of sponsors. Not a single name but fairly reeks of importance and achievement and a place in the forefront of things.

MANY ARE MORE THAN CASUALLY KNOWN IN BOSTON. Winthrop Ames, for instance, pioneer in various artistic movements. And in Boston, originator of the "Toy Theatre" plan. I believe he has actually had built for himself a theatre, down at the foot of the hill in Lime street, the very same edifice which Richard Platt later turned into a sumptuous studio residence, and where his late Winter musical afternoons go on so pleasantly. Mrs. John Barrymore is on the list. And so are the Charles Dana Gibsons, both more than ordinarily distinguished, the one because, among other things, she was formerly a "Southern beauty," and the other primarily for his creation of a "Gibson Girl."

THE GOOD ANGEL OF THE AMERICAN OPERA COMPANY, George Eastman, is much in evidence. In fact his name is very near the top of the list, and others whose purse strings are out where opera is concerned and are substantially wishing the American Company well are Otto H. Kahn, Miss Anne Morgan, Mrs. Lawrence Townsend, Mrs. William May Wright (the Cobina Wright who sang at No. 4 Beacon street a week or so ago) and Clarence H. Mackay. Favorable auspices, you'll agree, for a neophyte opera company to choose for its metropolitan entry. Perhaps Boston may, some time, add the American Company to its Winter's operatic scheme, as it has already to its Summer.

MUCH TO EVERYONE'S SATISFACTION, AND SPECIALLY SO to Mrs. Joseph F. Woods, the antique furniture exhibition at No. 52 Beacon street is doing bravely as a money-getter for the Free Hospital. Even Christmas week's counter attractions fail to keep people away. Antique furniture is a magnet few resist, now that Early English and Early American are so much the thing. Ever so many people dropped in yesterday, to add to the stack of dollars growing daily for the hospital, to sip a cup of tea and to see the Sheraton, the Hepplewhite, the Adam, the Chippendale or the Phyfe pieces of the Sacks collection.

FOR YESTERDAY'S TEA HOUR AT NO. 52 BEACON STREET Mrs. William Whitman, Jr., was the gracious dispenser of the steaming beverage. The handsome dining room of the establishment (No. 52 was for many years the Ellerton James home) is a dignified apartment, done in the elegant simplicity of a bygone day. Brocaded paper on its walls and fine carvings of mantel and panels lend beauty, and candlelight gleams on polished rosewood and mahogany as tea is served. Yesterday week Mrs. Pierpont A. Stackpole officiates behind the tea urn. The exhibition goes on until mid-January.

FROM BENEFIT TO BENEFIT PASS THE JUNIOR LEAGUERS. No sooner do they polish off one affair with energy and dispatch than another moves up to take the place just vacated. Certainly belonging to this most distinctive of organizations is no sinecure! It's real work the members are called on to perform. Most assuredly they intend to do themselves proud for the Junior Division of the S. P. C. C. They'll be on hand to usher at the Division's benefit lecture, on January 5, in Symphony Hall. But prior to that there's many a chore for them to get through with.

MISS BETTY MOULTON, MISS JANE SHELLEY MEGREW, Miss Eleanor Clark, Miss Katharine Dalton, Miss Emma Dickerman, Mrs. Schuyler Dillon, Miss Isabella Grandin, Miss Juliet Greene, Miss Magdalena Greenslet, Miss Helen Sanborn, Mrs. Theodore Spencer, Miss Elizabeth Stewart, Miss Kathleen Turnbull, Miss Betty Thomas and Mrs. Rene Whistler are dashing about town filling a program with advertising. The Junior Division is doing its lecture with a flourish—Lowell Thomas is a star speaker and the lecture hour is sufficiently delayed to permit a leisurely dinner hour, which, of course, means much preliminary entertaining.

MRS. F. H. TOYE

The former Henrietta Marie Hopkinson of Richmond Hill, L. I., is the bride in New York of Frederick H. Toye of the Boston Evening American staff.

RAIN TO GIVE 1927 A BATH

Indications at this distance are that Jupiter Pluvius has planned to wash New England well for the advent of the New Year, four days hence.

An intensive storm area, bulging with rain-laden clouds, is driving eastward from Nebraska and is officially predicted to cross the western boundary of this section tomorrow afternoon.

Temperatures are abnormally high for this season of the year throughout the Mississippi valley and most of the eastern districts, a reflection of which will be seen hereabouts in a slight elevation of the mercury over the coming twenty-four hours.

Forecast for Boston and vicinity: Fair tonight; Thursday increasing cloudiness, followed by rain in the afternoon or night; slightly warmer Thursday; moderate west, shifting to south winds.

FRED H. TOYE TAKES BRIDE

Frederick H. Toye of the Boston Evening American staff and Miss Henrietta Marie Hopkinson of Richmond Hill, L. I., were married in New York today. The bride was educated in Erasmus Hall School and was trained for a career as a singer by prominent New York masters of the voice. Her father, who is dead, was formerly connected with the New York Times.

Toye was graduated from Harvard with the class of 1908. He served with the motor transport and air service during the World War, and has been identified with musical affairs in the United States and abroad for a number of years.

DIAMOND QUEEN SEEKS PILOTS FOR PARIS HOP

New York, Dec. 28 (A.P.).—The New York American says today that Mabel Boll, known as "The Diamond Queen," is seeking Floyd Bennett and Bert Balchen as pilots for a proposed flight to Paris next May.

Bennett, who accompanied Commander Richard E. Byrd on his flight to the North Pole and Balchen, a member of Byrd's transatlantic crew, were said to have tentatively agreed to head a company in the process of organization to back the flight.

The wealthy former Rochester woman will foot the entire expense, it was said, $100,000, of which will be for the services of the two men. The proposed attempt would be made in a tri-motored Fokker plane.

Miss Boll was reported to have offered Charles Levine $25,000 for a seat in his plane Columbia last Summer when Levine was planning to fly back to this country from Paris.

WARSHIP SAVES PRIESTS, NUNS

Hongkong, China, Dec. 28 (A.P.).—Arrested on December 22 for preaching and practicing Christianity and held captive for nearly a week near Swabue, sixty miles from Hongkong, a party of ten Italian and Chinese priests and nuns have been rescued from Communists by the British destroyer Seraph.

A Chinese convert from Swabue reported to the Catholic bishop that one Chinese and two Italian priests and three Italian and four Chinese nuns were held prisoner and that the Chinese priest had been sentenced to death; that the mission convent and orphanage had been sacked and the captives paraded through the streets and then held in the Communists hotel.

The bishop communicated with Admiral Sir Reginald Tyrwhitt, commander-in-chief of the British naval forces, who immediately ordered the Seraph to proceed to Swabue, where the prisoners were rescued.

The Communists were reluctant to give up the condemned priest, and only consented when informed he was a British subject, the commander of the destroyer set a time limit for his delivery, the destroyer cleared for action and landing parties were made ready. Then he was released.

Captain John M. Anderson, Allen's commanding officer, and other superiors attended the services at the Saugus Methodist Church.

Patrolmen Albert L. Rowe, John J. MacNicholas, Robert McGeough, Thomas Mundy, Dennis J. Hanlon and John J. McManus of the Brighton station, acted as pallbearers.

Allen crashed into a tree Christmas morning when he lost control of his motorcycle in attempting to kick the loosened triangle standard back in place while the machine was in motion.

SEEK AGREEMENT ON WARE RIVER DISPUTE

Atty.-Gen. Arthur K. Reading of Massachusetts and Deputy Atty.-Gen. Ernest L. Averill of Connecticut, were in conference today at the State House, trying to arrive at some agreement on a plan allowing Massachusetts to take the waters of the Swift and Ware rivers, at the same time safeguarding the interests of Connecticut.

Reading appears before the War Department Friday on the question of granting a permit to Massachusetts to take the water from the Ware river. The War Department is chiefly concerned with the navigability of the Connecticut river.

HICKMAN FACES CHARGE OF SLAYING AN AUTOIST IN HOLDUP

Last week [illegible] H[illegible] [illegible]

[illegible] ist authorities was crossing Kansas on his way to Los Angeles at [illegible] time.

"Look at That Little Girl!" Broke Hickman

Los Angeles, Dec. 28.—Look at [illegible] Look at that little [illegible]

[illegible] after hours these words [illegible] in the case of William Edward [illegible] man, confessed kidnaper and slayer of little Marian Parker during the first twenty hours of the trip from Pendleton, Ore., to the city.

They were precious words to Los Angeles county, for they paved the way for the complete confession which Hickman made to Chief of Detectives Herman Cline, District Attorney Asa Keyes and Chief James E. Davis, of the brutal slaying of the Parker child.

It was Herman Cline, big, good natured Herman—that is, good natured when things are quiet but full of business when there is a hard case at hand—who "broke" "the coyote," formerly "the fox."

But it was Lieutenants Harry Raymond and Dick Lucas who paved the way for Chief Cline to "break" the slayer.

Slowly Hickman started to come out of the state of sham semi-coma, following his "fit," as we left Portland Sunday night. And every time that Harry Raymond and Dick Lucas saw a little girl at a station they would nudge "the fox" and exclaim:

"Look at that little girl!"

"FOX" SHUDDERED

Hour after hour it went on. Raymond and Lucas were carrying on a prearranged plan slowly but surely to shatter the nerve of the murderer. At first he merely looked in the direction to which his attention was directed.

Later on, as Raymond or Lucas made the remark, he shuddered. It was working on his mind. The two officers were relentless, they gave him the treatment every time a station was reached and a crowd was gathered.

"Look at that little girl! Look at that little girl!"

Hickman cringed. His sneaky eyes flashed and he shuddered as the officers, his guards, kept up their sing song phrase!

Finally the time was at hand for Chief of Detectives Herman Cline to make his entry. That was shortly before noon the second day of the Pendleton to Los Angeles ride. Previous to Chief Cline's appearance in the prison compartment he, Keyes and Chief Davis conferred as to who should attempt to "break" Hickman. Gracefully, District Attorney Keyes stepped out of the picture.

"I'm the prosecutor, Herman," said Keyes. "You are the detective chief and the officer. It's up to you to start it. Go in there and call me when you are ready."

And Herman Cline went in and was with Hickman but a few minutes before it was time to call Keyes and the confession was on its way. Chief Cline took a seat across the compartment table from Hickman, looked him in the eye and said:

"Hickman, we want your story. We are ready to hear it now. I am sure you are not a coward. We know the story from start to finish and we know you are the kidnaper and murderer of Marian Parker. But we want to hear it from you. I'll give you five minutes to think this over. You know it is the right thing to do. Tell us all."

In the appointed five minutes, Chief Cline returned. Hickman, in the meantime having heard another [illegible] and Raymond, gulped a couple of times and started to talk.

HERE'S $25,000 WORTH OF DRINKS GONE WRONG!
Police liquor squad loading trucks of condemned booze at headquarters today. The liquor was a part of that seized in raids during the past year. It was turned over to the State for confiscation. Police valued it at $25,000, but declared not a drop of it was "fit to drink." State troopers guarded the cargoes en route to the State House.

WORCESTER GIRL TAKES POISON; HIDES REASON

Worcester, Dec. 28.—Miss Mary Carkins, 21, of Beacon street, is recovering from the effects of poison which she took, police say, with suicidal intent.

The young woman is at Worcester City Hospital. She would tell physicians and police no reason for her act.

Hickman Was 5 Hours Writing Confession

At first he weakly attempted to throw a "they" into his story, bringing in the names of "Cramer" and "Dunning" which he invented in his Pendleton cell.

District Attorney Keyes, Chief Davis and Chief Cline all looked Hickman in the eye.

"That won't do," said Keyes. "We want the truth."

And then with no sign that he intended to confess other than a heavy sigh, Hickman began to recite, from the beginning, the history of his crime, from the time he first planned it, until his capture in Pendleton.

When he had completed his almost unbelievable narrative, Chief Cline said to the prisoner.

"You are the most cold-blooded murderer in history. You will hang by the neck in San Quentin as soon as they can try you and get you there."

"I'll plead guilty," said Hickman.

"Well, we will send you in writing paper and pencil, and you sit here and write out your story just as you have given it to us."

"Yes, sir," said Hickman.

And he was [illegible] the next five hours Raymond and Lucas did not talk to him, then. Their work, with the exception of placing him in the county jail, was over. Hickman wrote on and on and on. At times his hands twitched with writer's cramp.

In all he wrote 4,300 words—19 pages of his damaging confession. And an additional five pages of what he declared was his "motive" for the murder, the desire to secure the $1,500 and the uncontrollable impulse to slay.

Hickman seemed relieved when his confession was made. He joked and laughed with his guards and Raymond and [illegible] was [illegible] have liked to throw him out of the window.

A little while later Chief of Police Davis entered the Hickman compartment and heard Hickman tell of all his other crimes, holdups and bank forgeries.

Hickman at School Lied for Spectacular Effects

Chicago, Dec. 28 (A.P.)—Love of publicity and an unusual interest in anaesthetics were mentioned today as characteristics of William Edward Hickman in his high school days by a former teacher, Frederick J. GREATEST ENGINE FOR N.H.

Schenectady, N. Y., Dec. 28 (A.P.)—The first of ten great freight locomotives was turned over today to officials of the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad Company at the plant of the American Locomotive Company here.

It is said to be the largest freight locomotive ever built in the United States, and will be placed in service on the longest freight train run in New England between Boston and one of the western gateways of the New Haven road.

The New Haven [illegible] is known, is 97 feet long and weighs, fully loaded and ready for service, 391 tons. Each engine requires 15,000 gallons of water and 15 tons of coal capacity.

CHARLEY, CHINESE, USURPS BERTH OF GEORGE, PORTER

Chicago, Dec. 28 (A.P.)—The niche occupied traditionally by the negro Pullman porter was usurped for the first time by the oriental when twelve young Chinese were introduced this week as club car porters on crack trains of the Northwestern and Union Pacific lines. All but one are Chinese of American birth.

NOBILE PREPARES FOR POLE FLIGHT IN SPRING

Ottawa, Dec. 28 (I.N.S.)—General Nobile, Italian explorer who crossed the North Pole in the dirigible Norge with Roald Amundsen, and now contemplates a scientific flight across the polar regions, has requested the Canadian government for complete maps on the Canadian Arctic. It was announced today. General Nobile plans his next polar flight in the spring.

LET DOCTOR TEST GERM ON HER

New York, Dec. 28 (I.N.S.)—A strange story of voluntarily suffering a dread disease for eight years, as a martyr to science, became known today with the filing of a $500,000 suit by Mrs. Mae L. Brearton against the $15,000,000 estate of Edwin C. Dewitt, drug king.

The executors of the estate are Mrs. Cora DeWitt, the widow, and Harold B. [illegible] of Chicago, a nephew. Mrs. Brearton is a former big game hunter and explorer.

According to Mrs. Brearton she returned in 1919 from an Alaskan expedition and after divorcing her first husband, R. M. Norton, agreed to submit to inoculation of a disease, which, she says, has proven incurable.

Mrs. Brearton charges that E. C. DeWitt, who proposed the plan to her in order that his chemists might experiment with her for the purpose of finding a cure, agreed to pay her $200 a month and her medical bills.

For six years, she says, DeWitt and the world's foremost scientists tried to find a cure. They failed, she said, and in 1925 after she married James Brearton, wounded World War captain, DeWitt agreed to raise her income to $1000 a month. She received this sum for three months, until DeWitt's death, she said.

Now she asks $500,000 for payments that were stopped and payments extending on through her estimated natural life.

REMUS SANITY FIGHT OPENS

Cincinnati, O., Dec. 28 (I.N.S.)—George Remus, ex-millionaire bootlegger, today sat in Probate Court listening to proceedings that will determine whether he will be permitted to go free or be committed to the State Asylum for the Insane, for murdering his wife, Imogene.

Balked in its attempt to convict Remus of murder, by a jury that declared him "not guilty on the sole ground of insanity," the State of Ohio is now attempting to show that he is insane.

The uncontrollable fits of rage which he displayed during the murder trial resulting, he said, from the belief that his wife and Franklin L. Dodge, federal prohibition agent, were carrying on a love affair, are to form the basis of the State's attempt to prove insanity.

SEEK RESERVE FIRE FORCES

Legislation to empower cities, except Boston, to establish reserve fire forces is sought in a bill [illegible] residents of Gloucester filed today at the State House.

In places where the regular force is not sufficient in numbers the reserves would be limited to [illegible] strength of reserves [illegible] to a limit of one for every [illegible] of a regular force above [illegible].

RADIO DIALOG

by C. WILLIAM RADOS

WORLD'S largest broadcaster may soon be built in Boston or points north. It will be known as the New England broadcaster and will cover the whole back yard of one of Boston's biggest hotels. Twenty-five chief announcers will be employed to run the elevators and there will be a permanent broadcast playing all day long. The sponsors connected with the world's greatest broadcasting station will build it on vacant land near the Franklin Park Zoo. Administration critics say what's the matter with the vacancies in the City Hall?

Reports coming into this office were carefully sifted, due to long habits of a coal furnace. Then we swept aside the rumors, due to experience as a janitor, and searched to the bottom for the facts due to long experience picking ash barrels. It was true. Some one had planned to build a gigantic broadcasting station and we submitted a list of things we don't want broadcast. Here goes.

* * *

"Do you want to break up your cold? Use a sledge hammer." This was [illegible] The following is [illegible] station also: "This is the Wetwash Theatre orchestra broadcasting directly from the Wetwash Theatre, on Wetwash avenue, going to play Al Wetwash's favorite piece 'Wetwash of Yesterday.' As I just announced this is coming directly from the Wetwash Studio in Wetwash Theatre, managed, owned and sold by the Wetwash Theatre Corporation. As the curtain rises dripping wet, that famous march of the Wetwash hour begins. There are two sides to a wash board. This is Joe Wetwash, master of ceremonies."

Another thing that would make any station considerably bigger would be to prohibit the following sort of guff: "Have you weak eyebrows? Do you feel slightly tired after a hard day shoveling snow? Do your ears perspire and your shirt feel tight after a hot day? Then use Popcorn, Nature's own remedy for popping corns. This is station MUDD broadcasting an interesting discussion of why we have fleas."

* * *

The better class of stations have their own announcers at the dance places when they can. When the orchestra leader announces he naturally gets in as much publicity as possible. But when the announcer is there he just [illegible] out the audience [illegible] and unnecessary applause.

* * *

It doesn't make much difference, of course, but the line between the [illegible] those small [illegible] after month. Maybe the world's biggest station will insist on these features.

* * *

It is said a real showman will run the broadcaster. For years, months and weeks critics have wept over the fact that "radio has no showmen." Roxy is supposed to be the one and only, with maybe Major Bowes and a couple of others thrown in. All the rest are thrown out.

* * *

The showman who runs this newest station will have to know how to keep the audience waiting until the next act before it can sit down. He will have to know how to charge increased prices on holiday nights and any other night he thinks he can get away with it. He will also have to have some one mutter into the microphone and sneeze and cough so as to spoil some of it. But his crowning act as a showman will be to have someone telling continually what is going to happen next. That will be almost as perfect as a title reader out loud.

SALEM COTTON MILLS TO TAKE A WEEK'S VACATION

Salem, Dec. 28 (A. P.)—Announcement was made today that the Naumkeag Steam Cotton Mills here would close on January 2, reopening on January 9. This curtailment is in line with similar action by other cotton mills, as it has been found inexpedient to accumulate too large a stock of unsold production.

GIVES HIS LIFE SAVING BOY WHEN ICE BREAKS

Washington, Dec. 28 (I N S).—Harold S. Semple, a young scientist attached to the Bureau of Standards lost his life in the icy Potomac here after a sucessful effort to save Bradley Dikinson, 13, from drowning. Both were skating. The boy crashed through thin ice and Semple went after him. He saved the boy but was too exhausted by the effort to save himself. Semple's parents live in Topeka, Kans.

TODAY

they began "planning" a generation ago and haven't done anything yet.

Chicago's plans were inspected on paper in the offices of the commission, and then in actual work. Details not to be published in full until next month will astonish every city in this country and Europe.

A magnificent boulevard running around the congested center of the city, on land taken from the lake, will connect North and South Chicago. A boulevard 200 feet wide, running for miles over railroad tracks, with no cross streets, connecting Chicago's central business district with territory around Chicago, and magnificent air ports, are features of a plan that not only looks ahead, but builds ahead for many years.

Chicago is deeply indebted to Mr. Simpson and his associates, and big New York ought to borrow them for a few weeks and learn something.

J. Pierpont Morgan takes Judge Gary's place as chairman of the United States Steel board of directors. That will please stockholders. Mr. Morgan's father created the company, with the assistance of Judge Gary, James A. Farrell and other able citizens and changed a half a billion worth of stock that Carnegie called "not even water, mere air," into stock now worth more than $220 a share, the 40 per cent. stock dividend included.

To change "thin air" to a solidly established stock worth more than a billion real dollars shows what American business can do.

Mr. Filene, of Boston, predicts, not far off, chain stores rivaling in financial importance General Motors, or United States Steel, and doing a business of a billion a year. Last week, in Chicago, one retail store did a business of $750,000 a day. A chain of stores like that would make United States Steel seem small.

Professor Dewey teaches philosophy to young gentlemen of Columbia University and tells Chicago the world has not lost its morality, but is changing to a new era that will be better. That new era, to be better, must drop whiskey flasks for high school children, get rid of some pink stockings that reach, visible, nearly to the waist.

Morality, in any era, [illegible] self-respect.

'KICK BLACK SHEEP OUT OF BOXING'—TUNNEY

By GENE TUNNEY
World's Heavyweight Champion

"THOUSANDS of fight fans throughout the country," writes a reader, "regard you as a representative of clean sport. As heavyweight champion you wield a great influence, and I sincerely hope that you will use this influence to bring about much needed reforms in the boxing world.

"The evils that have to be remedied are so numerous that I will not attempt to enumerate them all. The one that irritates me the most is the over-press-agenting of ham fighters, who are really setups to build up the reputations of opponents who aren't much better than they.

"In time this sort of thing will ruin the fight game in this country. Boxing, properly conducted, is a great sport. It is coming fine a game to be permitted to go to the dogs.

"The fans all over the United States who want to see boxing survive expect you to do everything in your power to correct the evils of the boxing game and put the sport on as high a plane as college athletics. Such ideals have made college sport what it is today.

"I realize that different conditions prevail in professional sport than in amateur sport; but the big league baseball owners have shown what can be accomplished by professional sportsmen who want to keep faith with the public. Baseball has cleaned house. Let boxing do the same thing. . . ."

I WISH I could quote the letter in its entirety. But it is so long that if I did I wouldn't have any space left to comment on it. I have quoted enough of it to give you the gist of what is on the mind of its writer.

Let me say at the outset that I deeply appreciate the confidence that my correspondent has in me as a representative of clean sport.

I heartily agree with him that everything should be done to prevent unsuitable characters from participating in the activities of the boxing world. The sport should be kept clean.

Fights involving set-ups are out and out deception and those responsible for fooling the public in this shameful way should be removed from the game.

BUT I cannot agree with everything my correspondent says. "Has made collegiate sport what it is today." That statement carries with it the inherent assumption that college athletics are pure as the driven snow.

This is far from the truth. On numerous occasions I have found real inspiration in the wholesomeness of college athletics but I am also aware that collegiate sport, like every other sport, has its evils.

Only last day at breakfast I read under the headline, "ALL EVILS IN COLLEGES MAY CAUSE UPHEAVAL," a dispatch from Chicago which said in part:

"An upheaval in college athletics in the offing, George Huff, athletic director of the University of Illinois, has confided to Western Conference coaches here.

"Huff's small skull comes, he said with the announcement of the findings of the Carnegie Foundation now investigating conditions under which athletic departments of various big colleges operate."

Huff's warning, voiced at a meeting of coaches, was supported by President David Kinley of the University of Illinois, who detailed the evils to which college athletics especially football, are susceptible.

Commercialism, high salaries to coaches, and over-excitement, in his opinion, are over-emphasized, but heavy drinking frequently followed by drunkenness and disorderly conduct, before, after and during games was termed unfortunate and he urged that alumni of all colleges undertake the abolition of the practice.

IN addition to the above, the papers have recently carried stories indicating that colleges in other parts of the country are faced by similar problems.

Every sport, amateur and professional, has its black sheep. A man who has no natural tendency toward good sportsmanship will prove to be a bad influence whether he is connected with college athletics, professional boxing or anything else in or out of the realm of sport. A knitting contest conducted by a sewing circle could be corrupted, too, if someone sufficiently determined set out to do it.

No matter what precautions are taken, a certain number of people with a sense of decency will creep into both amateur and professional sport, just as they manage to creep into everything.

Rules and regulations will not keep them out. The most practical system of reform is to kick them out as fast as they are detected.

BRUINS' OWNER CRITICAL OF HARRINGTON

Pres. C. F. Adams of the Boston Bruins gave out the following statement on the Leland Harrington case today.

"Harrington has been farmed out for two years has been paid money by the Bruins each year, and prior to the opening of this season was among other players loaned by the Bruins to the New Haven Club, but to recall. The Bruins sold outright to the New Haven Club, the players Roberts and Cahill.

"Harrington was paid $500 by Boston this season which in effect takes the place of a Bruins' contract which he obviously could not fulfill if he was playing with the New Haven team.

"This payment to Harrington, in every organized hockey law, is in effect a contract or an agreement to certain conditions, namely that he re ing to Boston of the player on ing recalled and this sum credited a bonus over his New Haven contract whether he was recalled or not.

"He still is on the Bruins' reserve list and is subject to sale or recall at any time. If he does not report it is not our intention to take any steps that will make the situation any more unpleasant for Harrington than he is making it for himself.

"The Boston Club has shown all correspondence and agreements with the New Haven club regarding Harrington to President Frank Calder of the National League and he agrees that the Boston action has been correct in a legal manner in all proceedings."

It was announced as Harrington was scheduled to have stated would be seen Manager Ross on Jan. 1 and decide with him as to a agreement with a larger bonus than previously had agreed to?"

PENN RUSHES PRACTISE

Berkeley, Cal., Dec. 28—Pennsylvania's football stalwarts rushed through a hard workout for their intersectional game with California Golden Bears, here December 31.

A wet field and slightly unfavorable weather proved no check for Coach Lou Young of the Pennsylvanians sent his men through heavy scrimmage. He had his third team running off California plays while the varsity eleven endeavored to stop them.

Meanwhile, the California team listened up for a thorough blackboard talk with Coach "Nibs" Price tracing the defensive and offensive plays with which he hopes to stop the eastern squad.

As the Golden Bears have had a week's more practise than their rivals, Coach Price intends to taper off during the rest of the week. Coach Young will begin to ease up on practise tomorrow.

STAN STASIAK IS DEFIED TO DO HIS WORST

George McLeod will be on hand at the Grand Opera House Thursday night. "Stasiak may have chased Bill Komar away from Boston but not me, said McLeod. "I will be there and at my best. I had trouble with my eyes last week but they are O.K. now and I am perfectly willing for Mr. Stasiak to try his stuff on me."

McLeod does his stuff every day at the South End gym beginning at two o'clock and is leaving nothing to chance. The fans like George because he is a real athlete. He lives the proper life and does the work that keeps him looking fit and healthy.

While he is one hundred per cent wrestler he will have a real job on his hands tomorrow night. Stasiak, regardless of the fact that he does a lot of seemingly foolish things is some wrestler and one that no man in the game can take many liberties with. He is tough and strong and likely to end a match at any time.

Tony DeVicho, a newly arrived Italian, will make his initial bow to the fans meeting Ivan Ludlow of Goshen. DeVicho closely resembles George Kotsonaros in appearance only he is a younger and slighter built man. He is said to be a real sensation.

Charley Hanson, the sensational Swed-ish wrestler, will receive a real tryout with Ned McGuire.

MR. BOSTON

By Jack Conway

CHARLEY O'ROURKE, old-time fighter, was seated on a bench watching the youngsters of today blaze away as Mr. Boston stepped into Kelley & Hayes' gym.

"I wanted to take a look at Sharkey," volunteered O'Rourke. "I saw Jack when he boxed Dan Lucas in a preliminary match at Mechanics Building several years ago. At that time I went on record as of the opinion Sharkey was the most natural fighter to come to the front in the heavyweight division in a long time."

"Quite a few years since you were knocking them over," laughed Mr. Boston.

"I was at the crest of my fighting wave about 20 years ago," came back O'Rourke. "It was about that time that I knocked out Jack Twin Sullivan in eight rounds."

"How much money did you get for that scrap?" queried Mr. Boston.

"Sullivan and I cut up about $700," answered O'Rourke. "In those days there was a $1 top at most of the small clubs. You could squeeze by the entrance for two bits.

"The most money I ever got was when I fought Young Peter Jackson at Baltimore. That was a 20-round battle and my end of the purse was $1,850."

"WHO was the greatest puncher you ever saw in action?" was the next question Mr. Boston shot at the veteran.

"Joe Wolcott," was the quick reply. "When Joe knocked them cold they remained cold."

"What did you think of Joe Gans?" queried the persistent Mr Boston.

"I have heard Gans referred to as the greatest lightweight of all time," answered Charley, "but he wasn't. He was no better than the lightweights of today. Against rugged fighters like Bat Nelson he was very ordinary."

Mr. Boston gave O'Rourke a critical up and down.

"No marks, no cauliflower ears," he remarked. "How come?"

"I had a real left hand," said O'Rourke with enthusiasm. "I kept it popping into the other fellow's face and they couldn't hit me. In all I had 111 fights and never got marked up. When I realized I was beginning to slip, I retired. I'm now selling cloth for a living. And I'm doing very well, thank you.

"Here's Sharkey."

Johnny Buckley introduced the heavyweight contender to the famous oldtimer.

O'ROURKE and Mr. Boston looked on as Sharkey engaged in the first boxing of his training for his 12-round battle with Tom Heeney which will be staged in New York on January 13.

"He's the fastest big man I've ever seen in action," said O'Rourke "And he can hit," continued the veteran as Sharkey dazed Stone with one of his short right hand punches.

"I understand Sharkey is only 25 years of age," went on O'Rourke "He has five years of fighting ahead of him and if he continues to earn to his training as he has in the past he is a sure thing to be the next heavyweight champion of the world. I see how a swinger like Heeney has a chance to lay a glove on Sharkey."

After his workout, Sharkey stepped over to Mr. Boston.

"You can tell the world," piped Jack, "that I'm going through with the Heeney match on January 13. After that, I hope Rickard gets Tunney for me."

All of which punctures the reports that Sharkey intended to ask for another postponement of his shot with the New Zealand heavyweight.

GENE SARAZEN IN FLORIDA TITLE PLAY

Miami Fla., Dec 28.—Fields that almost match in calibre and brilliance the entry list for the national open champ-ionship will start in the $12,000 golf tournament which will be held over local courses the first week in January.

The Miami Beach open title will be played January 2 and 3, while the $5-hole competition for the Miami open championship is scheduled for January 7 and 8.

Gene Sarazen, winner of both classes a year ago, is returning to Florida to defend the two titles. Nemesis of Walter Hagen and winner of the U. S. open championship in 1922 is playing the best game of his meteoric career and is regarded as one of the outstanding favorites for both events.

Sarazen, however, will encounter stern opposition, particularly from Johnny Farrell, the sensational New York youngster, who is considered the greatest medal golfer in the world. The debonair Farrell is coming South with several records and his golf kit, including the world record for winning major tournaments in one season. Last summer he won eight of these big competitions and six of them in succession.

Sarazen and Farrell are great pals off the links, but once on the course all friendship are forgotten, and they fight it out every stroke. Farrell and Sarazen have been coming up with the leaders in the money list for the past four years, Farrell winning one of these championships by a single stroke.

Another star who is among the fields entered to date is Leo Diegel, and Miami Beach championship is as Jock Hutchison Britwa open champion in 1921, the first foreign representative ever to break into this channed British circle

Still another popular golfer entered is Emmet French, captain of the American professional international team several years ago.

Then there are Tommy Kerrigan, second to Hagen in one of the big open championships, Denny Shute, runner-up to Bobby Jones in the Southern open last spring, Willie Ogg, reinstated Long Island professional who has a record of 72 strokes for nine holes in an open championship as well as to following ranks.

Harry Hampton of Key West, Charley Mayo, Edmond Joyce, Al Culel and his brother Herm; best assistant pros to Gene Sarazen Alex Ayton, Leonard Dodson, protere of Walter Hagen, Joe Haney of Detroit, Peter Hunter of Glen Cove, N. Y., Al Ottinger, Jack Hasen, Mike Turnesa Pat O'Hara and Cawley Mowery of Montreal, Mike Brady will be in touch to the two local champion ships.

Yale Tournament Opens Tonight

New Haven, Ct., Dec. 28.—The New York University, University of Vermont and Holy Cross basketball teams are here for the opening of the Yale tournament. Play will open tonight when the crack team of New York University and Yale faces Vermont.

The visiting teams were the guests of the Yale Basketball Association, of which Lewis Parker is manager, at a dinner in the YMCA club, then at a local theatre last evening.

The losers of tonight's games will meet in the first game on Thursday evening. The winners of today's games will clash in the second, which will decide the tournament winner.

BRAVES FAIL TO RATE WELL IN FIELDING

There is remarkably little nourishment for Boston in the official fielding averages of the National League for 1927, released today. None of the Braves were well up in fielding, at least so far as the figures for regulars are concerned.

Eddie Moore played 16 games in the outfield and did not make an error and is found at the summit of the ladder. But 16 games are hardly enough to warrant a man being considered seriously in any one position. He played 59 games at third base and 45 at second in the second division of his work over in the field.

Dave Bancroft is 40 points lower than Jimmy Dykes, who led the American League in fielding at shortstop for a Brave's Field. It gains as was player in 61 games.

Sylvester Johnson, rookie is considered the find of the season, must go to Frank Frisch second baseman of the St. Louis Cardinals. He set a new record for chances accepted in that position, 1,027, and to the dyed in the wool fan the number of chances accepted is all important. Mere averages do not tell the whole truth.

Smarky Adams of the Cubs and now of the Reds has all a higher average than Frisch in the Chicago infielder has two errors in 63 games. But Frisch played 153 games at second and in examination of the figures shows that Frisch's number of chances per game were greater than Adams. In the first baseman's favor is the record of 1,3 fewer errors than his rival Cooney Pipp of the Reds let the first sackers but Bill Terry's record of 1,811 putouts remains safe. Comparable with Pipp's part thirty as regards assists. Chuck Dressen of the Reds and Pat Crawford of the champion Braves are the record leaders among the third sackers.

New York, Dec 28 (A P)—The Ottawa Senators and Canadiens in the National League hockey race a year ago, are lined-mined on presenting a rubber by the Montreal Canadiens, pace-makers in the present campaign.

In a nip and tuck s mble at Ottawa last night the Canadiens held the Senators to a one-goal margin, scoring their winning counter in the overtime period. A partisan crowd of 11,000 filled the Ottawa Arena, witness to the combat.

In the only other match in the New York circuit, Boston battled to a tie with the Detroit cubs.

Win or lose, this will be his victory in the New York six-day race, agreed to by Reggie McNamara today.

McNamara has won 13 races, finished second seven times, been third six times and fourth six times in the two years he has competed in the six days and has never been lower than fifth in any race. He has been matched for a 12-mile bout with Johnny Farr in Speyer Hospital for on January 4.

PASSING THE PUCK

By Bill Grimes

Manager Eddie Powers and his pacemaking Tigers left for New Haven this morning. The wearers of the orange and black are scheduled for a set-to with the Eagles this evening. The Tigers are playing a high-class brand of hockey, and the wonderful victory scored over Quebec before the largest gathering that ever attended a Canadian-American League game here made a host of friends.

"Whitey" Field should develop rapidly this season. He is only a youngster in his 20th birthday last week, is the most natural player on the Tiger squad. Naturally he is somewhat inexperienced at present but with his speed, stick handling and ability to hustle, I should prove a wonderful asset to Manager Powers after a season in the Can.-Am. League.

Gerard Rughes, the sensational English flash boy, is following the trail which Mickie Roach blazed more than a decade ago. Hughes is the outstanding hockeyist in the schoolboy ranks and bids fair to reach the heights that the illustrious Mickie achieved.

Capt. Myles Lane, who played for the Ford in San Francisco, is rushing back from the Pacific coast in order to join his fast-mixing team for the McGill game in Madison Square Gardens, next week Card. Lane is being watched closely by N. H. L. managers, but as he has another year at Hanover before he finishes at Tuck School he will not be in a position to talk professional hockey until 1929.

Speaking of hockey at Dartmouth, the Green will have one of the best defenses in the college ranks in Capt. Myles Lane, Ed Armstrong and Molly Bott. Lane and Armstrong will be on the outer defense and Bott in the nets. Football blocks will be used as body check by Lane and Armstrong who starred on the gridiron. This will be Armstrong's first season at varsity hockey.

There is more smoke than fire to the furore over Hapo Harrington being left behind. The Medicine Man feels that he should get more salary for playing in the National Hockey League than he did with New Haven, but he fully realizes that if the Bruins do not agree with him he must sign or be suspended. Nobody can be blamed for trying.

Frank Synnott and Sonny Foley are handling Canadian-American League games most efficiently. Synnott and Foley have made a close study of the refereeing game, and by dividing their duties so that one is with the play and the other trail which Mickie Roach blazed more than a decade ago. Hughes is the outstanding hockeyist in the schoolboy ranks and bids fair to reach the heights that the illustrious Mickie achieved.

Although it may be unfair to pass judgment on their work in one game, Bell and Bourgoine did not measure up to the local standard of efficiency. If such is the case it would have allowed the Tigers and Quebec to get away with as many off color passes as did Pres. Clapp's Canadian importations, the bowls of the fans would have been heard for miles. If the league is going to the expense of bringing referees from across the border, it should get the best, for the woods are full of Bell and Bourgoine types.

The New Haven club is going to redress Lou Marsh away, two former Tooth League players man. Morris Dukeshire and Eddie Gerard. Dukeshire did not make the grade with the Bruins but would rate in the Eagle ranks. Gerard is a clever player but has had no chance to show his wares.

Every member of the Tigers received as much of a thrill out of George Redding scoring the winning goal over Quebec as did the lucky Irish himself. Redding has not been getting the breaks this season and was on the point of losing confidence in his ability to hold up his end. Now that Redding has delivered a personal victory, he should swing back into his prettiest stride.

One of Canada's leaders is Charles Gorman, world's champion.

During this week seats and boxes will be on sale there at regular prices. The proceeds of the game will be used in the work of

YANKEES TURN DOWN BIG OFFER

New York, Dec 28.—The New York Yankees have turned down an offer of $30,000 for Henry Johnson, 21 year old pitcher.

Surprisingly enough, the offer is not made in a minor league—it is a offer of the American Association champions.

"I told H. W. Kelly, the new owner of the Milwaukee club, that Johnson was worth $50,000 to me and would take $60,000 for him before I'd sell him," declared Jake Ruppert, owner of the Yanks.

If the deal had been consummated, it would have constituted the purchase of a player from a major league player by a minor league club.

Johnson was with Milwaukee in action last year and was recalled by the Yankees at the close of the American Association season.

The Yankees now are bagged Shenly from St. Paul and Josh Gonney declares they have acquired the two best A. A. pitchers of 1927.

ARMY-NAVY BREACH IS WIDENED

West Point, Dec. 28 (I N S)—The football breach between the Navy and the Army was wider today as the result of the hot rejoinder made here by Major W. D. Fleming of the Military Academy to the charges contained in a editorial printed in the Athletic News of the Naval Academy.

Major Fleming was outspoken in his condemnation of the Navy's undergraduate paper, characterizing the editorial as a "consciencable distortion of the facts."

Replying to a statement made by Major-General Edwin Winans that the main purpose of athletics at West Point was to fit men for army service, the Navy pointed out that seven stars of the Military Academy had resigned from the army after graduation.

In commenting on this Major Fleming said:

"Only two of the seven players named can be used as fair examples of what the Navy's new system is imply. The seven mentioned are Oliphant, Frech, Gerbach, Dahl, McKwan, Bradster and Vidal. Oliphant and Vidal served from four to six years in the army before resigning to accept more lucrative employment. McKwan was graduated at West Point in 1917 and did not resign until 1926 to accept a coaching job in the Middle West, which paid him twice the salary he was getting in the army. In his nine years of service he was assigned part of the time to coaching the Army football team.

"Dahl was forced to resign after one year of football at West Point because of dependency, while French was found, as we say when a cadet is unable to keep up in his work in the second year.

"This leaves only Swridster and Gerbach. The latter did resign after graduation from the Naval Academy because he did not think he could support his mother on his salary and Swridster left for similar reason.

"It is my impression however, that Breidster was not a college star when he entered the Academy."

Replying to a statement by Representative Britten of the House Naval Affairs Committee Major Fleming stated that resignation of football players from the army following graduation is less than three per cent, instead of the eighty per cent claimed by the Congressman. He said that Representative Britten must be ill-informed.

FIELD OF 50 IN TRAVIS GOLF TOURNEY

New York, Dec. 28.—In the space of only a few weeks, the testimonial tournament in memory of Walter J. Travis at St. Augustine, Fla., on January 4 has developed from a beautiful thought to a major-sized tournament.

In the deed of gift, the competition for the handsome trophy that adjourns from year to year, which the game is restricted to amateur champions of golf clubs, and fully fifty from the metropolitan area received, the list will likely number fifty.

Over a score of club champions will represent the metropolitan district, and a stirring international touch will be given to the competing field with the presence of L. D. Ortoli of Evreux, France.

Despite the heavy entry from the New York district, the tournament will be inconsequential in many more than half the States will have their sharp-shooters in action at St. Augustine. Canada will retain a great deal of the charm of its Spanish ancestry.

The testimonial tournament will be held over the St. Augustine course on Jan. 4, 5, 6 and 7. On Wednesday, Jan. 4, the qualifying round, 18 holes of medal play, will be held. Semi-finals will take place Friday and the 36 hole final match play will come on Saturday.

The trophy, presented anonymously and said to be worth $1,000, will be awarded to the club represented by the winner.

The new tournament will be an annual affair, and the club that gains three legs on the trophy will retain it permanently.

Inside Golf

By Chester Horton

We have all heard many theories pro and con as to the best way to drive. To me my the drive is it, others say the drive is obviously worthless without ability to pitch, and still others argue what good is either of them if you need firm putts. The fact is, so far as I have been able to observe, they have all missed the one best shot-in golf.

Him it a the planed shot, and it makes little difference what club the player uses if that flies from 2 to 3 feet above the ground and is the best placed shot is the thing. Ninety per cent of rolled drive, or ags it may be one of those long spoon shots that Bobby Jones has a habit of dropping off the green. But certainly there is no effort in golf that will reward the player with quite the thrill he gets from the placed shot. It is golf's best shot.

TO SELECT BOXERS FOR INTER-CITY SHOW

The first tournament to select boxers to represent Boston in the big intercity event at the Boston Arena, January 16, will be held at St. Joseph's T. A. S. at Commercial Hall, Bowdoin square, on Saturday night.

Boxers to represent the Hub in the big pugilistic feature will be picked by an elimination series. Bouts in seven open classes will be held Saturday night, including the following classes, 112, 118, 126, 135, 160 and heavyweight. Judging by the entry list every prominent amateur in the district will be on hand.

CRESCENT A. C. OFFERS BOUTS ON NEW YEAR'S

The Crescent A. C. will run its first indoor show New Years afternoon in Casino Hall, No. 75 Summer street, Lynn. The directors of the Lynn club have been told by its matchmaker, Lou Feaney, that the opening show will be of the same high class standard as the open air events were last Summer. Feaney plans to run an all-star card,

DILBOY POST TO STAGE BOUTS

Due to the holiday season Dilboy Post has been inactive but will now swing back into the picture and endeavor to put on a real high class show.

Entries may be filed at the Dilboy Post headquarters, Knights of Columbus Building, Highland avenue, Somerville.

Paulino Willing to Box Argone Victor

The fistic stage is all set for the appearance here of Paulino Uzcudun, the Spanish Woodchopper and the most discussed heavyweight in the country today.

The Argonne A. A. has received the signed contract of this colorful ring battler to meet the winner of the impending conflict between Jack Gagnon of New Bedford and Roberto Roberti of Italy, which will be held at Mechanics Building Friday night.

In order to satisfy the boxing commission that Paulino will tackle a worthy opponent here, Eddie Mack of the Argonne club clinched the Gagnon Roberti fight and the winner is sure to give the Spaniard an acid test here.

That there will be no last minute hitch in this heavyweight spectacle of the Argonne Club, which comprises 14 glants of the ring, was proved yesterday with the arrival here of Roberti, perhaps the best built heavyweight in the ring today.

Roberti came to the Hub fresh from an easy victory over Homer Smith, the big punching Wyoming cowher, who was like putty in the hands of the Italian champion.

The North End section of Boston already has taken Roberti to its bosom, in fact the same sort of reception was handed the Italian heavyweight king as was the custom in the old days when Johnny Dundee was the ranking Italian ring menace.

Roberti will work out today at Jim Toland's gym. As he is in the finest shape of his career, the Italian giant plans only an easy work out today but no doubt one of the greatest crowds which ever invaded the De Luxe gym will be on hand for a peek at this ring monster.

Robert, who was the model for the Italian "Unknown Soldier," is the outstanding foe here among the Latin followers of the game. His popularity in this country has been astounding in view of the fact that he has been here only a short time.

And judging by early indications at the Argonne Club, a capacity crowd will be on hand Friday night to witness this giant in action.

Gagnon is a wicked puncher, as his record of fifteen knockouts in eighteen bouts conclusively proves. In fact, he punches so hard that the New Bedford boy was blamed for the postponement of Jack Sharkey's fight with Tom Heeney.

Sharkey and Gagnon work out every day, and seldom does the youthful New Bedford boy come off the worst for it. Sharkey is one of the shrewdest ring operators, and he predicts that he will be occupying a place in the fistic sun within another year.

Friday night's fistic event at Mechanics Building will be the first bona fide heavyweight elimination tournament in the history of the Hub.

Fourteen heavyweights representing all sections will battle for ring fame. In the second ten-rounder, Eddie Callahan of Arlington, winner of twelve straight fights by knockouts in elite company when he faces Romero Rolse, the hard-hitting Chilean, who once knocked out Jack Sharkey here. This bout will probably be the turning point in Callahan's career.

In addition, Eddie Mack has arranged five 10-round bouts in one of which Morgan Gardner of Lowell, son of George Gardner, former light heavyweight champion, will clash with Terry Mitchell, Athol giant. Gardner has won six straight professional fights and Spindle City fans will invade the Hub for a peek at him.

In another heavyweight feature, Joe Kaplin and Joey Domingos will work out for this. They recently wrestled a spectacular draw on the canvas and now they will settle it in the ring.

Rockey Stone of Roxbury will return to a Hub ring in this show when he meets Hasan Hassen of Peabody. As Hassen once knocked out Stone, Rocky is out for revenge.

Big Bob Mack of Charlestown meets Steve McGrew of Cambridge while Al Schoonse of Hartford faces Joe Wilson of Chelsea town.

Tickets for the show are now be procured at No 61 Court street.

Newton High Contemplates Staging Tennis Play Some Time Next Spring

Newton High School may conduct a State interscholastic tennis tournament for high schools next Spring.

Wendell F. Smith, coach of Newton High School tennis teams for six years, has written all the leading high schools relative to the tournament and is awaiting replies so that he can make preliminary plans.

It is the opinion of Coach Smith that high school tennis has not been given the attention it deserves.

He claims few high schools will not enter players in the Harvard interscholastic tournament because they do not care to compete against the more experienced preparatory school players and hopes an exclusive high school event will be much more popular.

It is doubtful, however, if the Newton tournament will conflict with the Harvard event, because Newton and several other high schools may be strong enough to enter teams in the Soldiers Field competition.

Coach Smith has also written the high schools in Greater Boston asking [illegible] formation of a high school [illegible] league and in [illegible] of two weeks expects to determine whether a league can be formed.

The league suggestion has been offered to Boston English, Medford, Melrose, Lowell, Cambridge Latin, [illegible] Belmont, Dorchester, [illegible] Watertown and Jamaica Plain [illegible].

Leading [illegible] of Massachusetts [illegible] in favor of the organization of a Greater Boston tennis [illegible] high schools because they believe it would build better players for the future senior competition.

The Boston high schools went into tennis on a big scale recently and have developed a number of promising players.

Coach Smith developed Henry L. Johnson, Jr., and Malcolm Hill, national junior doubles champions. He is a graduate of Massachusetts Agricultural College.

Holdout Season Will Open Soon

New York, Dec. 28.—Contracts to members of the New York Giants will be in the mail within a few days and papers for the Yankees will be on their way about the middle of January. The difference in time amounts to nothing more than a custom that has prevailed for years in New York baseball circles. The Giants always send out contracts about Jan. 1, and the Yanks are more leisurely about it.

Two of the outstanding stars of each club are under contract for another season, but most of the players are looking for raises or expecting at least the same money as last year. The Yankees signed Babe Ruth and Herb Pennock to three-year contracts last Winter, and the Giants signed Hornsby and Ed Roush for an extended period.

The holdout season may be expected to start any time after January 1.

Alumni to Battle Newton High Sextet

Guy Holbrook of Harvard, Henry Johnson and Harold Andres of the Dartmouth '31 sextet, Holmes Whitmore of Boston University, Wayland Vaughn, formerly of Newton High, Andover and Yale hockey fame; Billy Ellison, ex-Harvard varsity captain are some of the hockey players who will play for the alumni against Newton High School on Saturday.

CONNELLEY TO BOX IN WILLIAMS' STABLE

Jimmy Connelley of Brockton, who has been in New York for the past eight months, has placed himself under the management of Jack Williams. While in New York he took part in fourteen contests and never had a decision rendered against him. In his initial contest before the local fans at Mechanics Building, he showed plenty of class, and on January 13 he will box the best available opponent for the Argonne A. A. In the meantime, he will box at Fall River and Worcester.

GIVE CHARLESWORTH PURSE AT NORTH ADAMS

North Adams, Dec. 28.—Yale alumni and North Adams friends united in tendering a testimonial banquet to Dud Charlesworth, Yale football star and All-American center, at the Richmond Hotel here.

Dr. R. J. Carpenter, Yale alumnus, acted as toastmaster and James Young of Adams, football official, gave the feature address. Charlesworth was presented with a purse of gold.

Browns Get Hill

St. Louis, Dec. 28.—Ralph Hill, a left-handed pitcher, of Boston, who has played semi-professional baseball with various New England teams, has signed a contract with the St. Louis Browns, it was announced at the offices of the club here.

TEACHES ROYAL GAME

THE PRINCE CAN DO NO WRONG

Except when he starts playing golf and then he does plenty, but Dave Hood in this picture had the delightful job of teaching golf to the Crown Prince of Japan, now the Emperor. Hood, in his professional golf wanderings, has covered quite a field. That the Scotch game has a firm foothold in every distant country is established by Hood's accompanying account of his golf explorations.

Toronto Varsity in Two Games Here

Toronto varsity players, intercollegiate champions of Canada since 1915, face the hardest assignment that a team from that famous hockey college has ever entered into when they try to defeat the University Club and Harvard varsity here on successive nights.

The Toronto-University Club is billed for Friday night at the Arena and the Toronto-Harvard battle is scheduled for Saturday night.

For the first time since Toronto has ruled the collegiate roost of the Dominion both University Club and Harvard have an even chance to beat the Canadians. The local teams should be able to match the Canadians in point of speed, and with this department all even experience and combination stick skill will determine the issue.

University Club has plenty of intelligent players in its lineup, with Harvard, Yale, Dartmouth and Boston College represented. All three teams engaging in this two-night series are well fortified with spares so there will be no complaint on this score after the games are over.

LOCAL CANADIAN SUPPORT.

Toronto varsity is the pet of Canadian hockey fans. Its teams have long represented the class of the amateur hockey in the Dominion. Where teams from other sections have failed in the international college tests here the Toronto boys generally have upheld Canada's great hockey prestige.

Thousands of natives of Canada now residing in Greater Boston will have a chance to root for a representative Canadian champion when Toronto squares off. These local Canadians appreciate the hard task before Toronto in battling two crack teams like University Club and Harvard on successive nights. The Toronto boys will be made to feel right at home when they tackle the club team in the first game Friday night at the Arena.

In view of their coming series with the Toronto Varsity Grads at the Arena next week the University Club players can ill afford to lose to the collegians. The games with the Grads are really for the world's amateur championship since these are the leading club teams of the United States and Canada. So it is easy to appreciate the great efforts Captain George Owen's team will put forth to down the college boys Friday night.

TORONTO'S BULKY DEFENCE.

With a defence averaging 175 pounds the Toronto Varsity will present a sturdy group of forwards too. These forwards average in weight 1[illegible] pounds which is ideal poundage for forwards.

The two centres are Mackenzie King and Bill Stewart. King has been with Varsity three seasons and is noted for his back checking. Stewart comes up from the St. Mary's team of Toronto team last season. He has a marvelous poke,

Other forwards of speed and experience are Mel Harley, Wes Richards, Jimmy McMullen, Perce Devine and Bob Crosby. Class is written all over this attacking group.

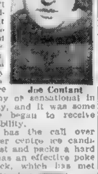
Mike Pearson, coach of the Toronto Varsity football team is coaching the hockey team, succeeding Connie Smythe, who now directs the Toronto Maple Leafs in pro hockey.

The announcement by Manager George V. Brown of the Arena that popular prices will prevail for these two games was [illegible] welcomed by fans, especially the Canadians who plan to root for Toronto.

Hockey Stars

Joe Contant
Tigers

Quiet and modest, Joe Contant is winning great favor among the followers of the Tigers. Joe came here this Fall with little expectations of making the regular berth of the Tiger team.



Joe Contant

With his illustrious brother Ponzi, Joe journeyed from Cornwall, Ont., when the Tigers were ordered to report to Manager Eddie Powers. At the start of the season Joe failed to attract more than a passing notice. He is a smooth, easy and effective worker. There is nothing flashy or sensational in his style of play, and it was some time before he began to receive credit for his ability.

Joe Contant has the call over any of the other centre ice candidates. He is fast and packs a hard shot. Also he has an effective poke and sweep check, which has met with great success [illegible].

This is Joe's first season in professional hockey. For two years he was with the Cornwall O. H. A. championship outfit, and a couple of seasons in the Canadian-American League, plus about fifteen pounds, will make him eligible for a step up the ladder to the N. H. L.

GOLF IN THE ORIENT

By DAVE HOOD.
(AS TOLD TO BILL GRIMES.)
Instructor to the Emperor of Japan

LITTLE do the people of this country realize the tremendous hold the game of golf has on almost the entire world. Golf in the United States and the British Isles is of the greatest interest, while France and Canada come in for their share.

The golfers in this country watch closely the results of the British amateur and open championships. This is due in a large measure to the fact that Americans annually participate in these classics.

[illegible] United States [illegible] results of the [illegible] United States amateur and open championships are [illegible] the world.

But how [illegible] do people [illegible] the results of [illegible] of the Far East or "Down Under" events? How many people realize that in Japan, where 7[illegible] people are crowded into a comparatively small area there are eleven golf clubs? That there is an 18-hole course situated in the very centre of Hong Kong? That 1,500,000 people in New Zealand can and do support sixty-two golf courses?

FOR twenty-four years, I was "Down Under" and in the Orient. I was in New Zealand and Australia for seventeen years, spent a year in the Philippine Islands, four and one-half years in Japan and eighteen months in China. Therefore I firmly believe that I am fully qualified to speak authentically on golf in the Orient.

Although I encountered many pleasant times during the years I spent in the Far East, I will always look back on the period during which I was the personal golf instructor to the present Emperor of Japan as the happiest of my career.

While I was acting in the capacity of pro at the Manila Golf Club I received a invitation to go to Tokio and become the instructor to the Crown Prince. How and why I was selected for such an honor I have never been able to discover. But I immediately accepted the offer and hurried to Tokio.

MY contract called for golf instruction to the Crown Prince, who is now the Emperor, Prince Asaka Kuni and the other members of the Imperial household at Shinjuka Palace, Tokio, where His Majesty had a private course.

Much to my surprise, I found upon my arrival at Shinjuka Palace that His Majesty did not speak or understand a word of English. Therefore it was necessary for me to teach through an interpretor, Count Otani.

From the first lesson, His Majesty displayed great interest in golf. He was a very pleasant and apt pupil and it was while teaching members of the royal family of Japan that I saw for the first time a movie camera in action.

During every lesson I gave at Shinjuka Palace, a movie camera was on the job recording every move and along with the royalty I had [illegible] a good laugh when the pictures were thrown on the screen.

THERE were five professional golfers in my family. I was born in Edinboro, Scotland, and my father was the pro at Braid Hills and along with my brothers, Tom, Fred and Frank, I took up the game while a mere lad.

My brother Tom is now at the Royal Dublin course in Ireland, but Fred, who was in New Zealand, and Frank, who was the professional at [illegible], Fife, Scotland, are now dead.

It was in 1898 that I started [illegible] at Royal Dublin [illegible] and I [illegible] started [illegible] at [illegible] in Ireland, as assistant [illegible] with Rowland Jones to Wimbledon Park, in England.

In 1902, while looking around for an opportunity to start out for myself, I discovered that there was not a professional golfer in New Zealand, so I decided to cast my lot "Down Under." For seventeen years, I was in New Zealand and Australia and during these years golf rushed to the front in these countries as rapidly as it has here in the "States."

WHEN I took up my work in New Zealand there were but four courses in that country, but despite the fact that the entire population is only 1,500,000 there were sixty-two golf clubs, all of which are paying propositions, when I left to go to the Philippine Islands.

As it is only [illegible] from New Zealand to Australia, I divided my time between those countries. It was while I was in Australia that I first met and became acquainted with Victor East and Joe Kirkwood. East is now the professional at the Longmeadow Country Club up in Springfield, while Kirkwood is famous as a trick golfer. At that time Kirkwood was playing his first Australian open and East was his [illegible].

I left New Zealand and Australia in 1919 and migrated to the Philippine Islands, where I was the professional at the Manila Golf Club. There are four courses in and near Manila. Right in the city of Manila, in fact it is situated opposite the Hotel Manila, is the Caloocan Golf Club, which is an 18-hole layout with sand greens, and besides the Manila G. C. there is an 18-hole municipal course, which it costs fifty cents a day to play.

PLAY is very heavy at Caloocan Manila, and at the "Muni" due to the very convenient locations of these courses, but the most popular and finest layout in that section is at the Bagio Golf Club, which is outside and 4,000 feet above the City of Manila.

The approach to Bagio is over a wonderful road which was constructed by the United States Army. Bagio is a hard layout, being very hilly, but the weather is always cool and it is one of the finest spots for golf in the section.

During my year's stay in Manila I suffered with malaria and was on [illegible] when I received the offer to act as the personal golf instructor to the Crown Prince of Japan and the royal household.

In the next article Dave Hood will relate some of his experiences in Japan and China and tell of the wonderful golf courses in those countries.

Chance Acquaintances -:- -:- By Beatrice Fairfax

HE SEES HER EVERY DAY AND LONGS TO KNOW HER

IT'S SAFER TO WAIT FOR AN INTRODUCTION

By Beatrice Fairfax
An Authority on the Problems of Love and Marriage.

W[illegible] social affairs are managed more simply than they were a few generations ago.

This is for the most part gain, as many of the customs discarded by modern men and women were outworn. There are, however, certain conventions which we cannot afford to dispense, because they protect all, even though they may prove inconvenient now and then.

"Anxious" writes that he wishes to make the acquaintance of a young lady who lives in his neighborhood. He feels that she also would be interested in meeting him. He has asked all his friends about her, but not one of them knows her. He explains she is evidently "a person of refinement" who would resent being addressed by a stranger. Under these circumstances, is there no way in which these two young persons can meet each other?

"Lonely Seventeen" has a similar problem. She knows a certain young man—"by sight only." He stopped in front of her house the other day while she was on the porch and made some remark. "Seventeen" paid no attention to the remark and the young man continued on his way.

She wishes to know whether she did right. She says she really would like to know the young man. "Seventeen" knows a girl who knows him, but whenever she sees the girl, the young man does not happen to be present.

"Sis" also is puzzled over the introduction problem. She was introduced, it seems, to a young man over the phone. He has never seen her. He refuses to meet her parents, but wishes to meet her out [illegible] home. [illegible] going on with the acquaintance.

It might be very pleasant now and then to "pick up" an attractive stranger. But would it be wise?

On my desk are a few clippings from recent copies of the newspapers. These are some of the true stories they tell:

A traveling salesman met a pretty blonde through his [illegible] who "picked her up" in a restaurant without an introduction. The salesman cultivated the girl's acquaintance. As a result, she involved him in a hold-up, murder, and both are awaiting correction.

"The nicest fellows."

This is the description two factory girls gave to two young men they met on the street. The men asked the girls riding the following evening.

"Why not go!" the girls doubtless reasoned. "We have little enough fun! We can take care of ourselves and any one can see they're lovely young men."

A lonely road, the morning after [illegible] revealed the battered, [illegible] bodies of the two girls.

[illegible] "lovely fellows," [illegible]

It is better to be safe than sorry. You can't place [illegible] chance acquaintance. Wait until you can meet the young man who interests you in the right way, through a friend you share in common. Then your acquaintance will have every chance of leading to friendship, perhaps—who knows—a happy romance and marriage.

Fox Finds Star in Extra Ranks

By LOUELLA O. PARSONS

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 28.—Her [illegible] Dorothy Kitchen [illegible] of [illegible]. She came West about a year ago with letters from the late Philip Payne and other well known New Yorkers. At the time they [illegible] a chance [illegible] extra bits, [illegible] was never able to get more than mob scenes.

Then Winfield Sheehan saw her [illegible] it to F. W. Murnau of "Sunrise" fame, who agreed with Mr. Sheehan the girl had great possibilities. To make a long story short, Miss Kitchen was cast for one of the leading feminine parts in "The Four Devils," the next Murnau production.

[illegible] will not have such a homely name when she appears for the Fox Company. She has been rechristened Nancy Drexal, Fox's signing this unknown makes the fourth company within a week to start grooming an unknown [illegible] Los Angeles [illegible] will be the year for new faces.

Or, perhaps, it is the Christmas spirit. Who can say?

WHAT is [illegible] funny about a [illegible] detective? I don't [illegible] only it is one of those sure feet "gags" that is always good for a laugh in the theatres. Look at "the Gorilla"—what would it have been without Mulligan and Garrity? Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer is banking on [illegible] Arthur and [illegible] title of "The Detective."

F Hugh Herbert, Chester Franklin and Del Lord are collaborating on the story and if they pattern their idea after "The Gorilla" without actually copying the plot they cannot go far wrong. Am I right or wrong? The public at the moment is greatly interested in this sort of screen play.

CARL LAEMMLE knew he had a good actor when he signed Conrad Veidt, a man may be a genius and still be poison to a film company. Therefore Mr. Laemmle wasn't sure that he had such a prize package until "A Man's Past" was produced and released.

Box office receipts speak far louder than words, and when the exhibitors announced the picture a success, then Mr. Laemmle knew his judgment had been good. Furthermore he decided to prove it by resigning Mr. Veidt on a new contract. Now all Mr. Veidt wants is to have the world pronounce his name correctly.

THERE are rumors current in Hollywood at this time that at least two other studios will follow the example of Warner Brothers and shut down shortly after the first of the year.

Universal, in response to queries on that score, points out that two big productions, "The Show Boat" and "Ivanhoe," will be started early in 1928, and there is no thought of postponing them, hence Universal may be counted out in the list of those that shut down. Edward Montagne is already arranging to have "The Show Boat" and "Ivanhoe" put in scenario form.

HOLLYWOOD missed Ben Turpin along the boulevards at Christmas time. He can usually be seen on Hollywood Boulevard. There was a very good reason for Mr. Turpin has taken himself and his famous trick eyes into vaudeville. His friends say he knows his stuff, too.

THE Christmas aftermath is almost as bad in Hollywood as the rush beforehand. You get into that delightful state of lethargy that comes of too much turkey and cranberry sauce and you wish you had been born rich so you could take a rest. The studios are practically newsless. I don't believe any contracts are being signed or any productions are being planned this week.

I saw Adolphe Menjou, hat pulled down over one eye, parked in front of the Paramount studios in his roadster, talking with Vadja, the Hungarian writer. Billy Haines with his usual smile and nonsensical sally, called to me at the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer studio. The Fox Company is deep in "The Red Dance of Moscow," and Raoul Walsh has his "I mean business look." None of this is particularly exciting, but Hollywood is not yet recovered from its Christmas celebrations.

"Watch your ~~step~~ throat"

Due to overheated homes, stuffy offices, crowded cars, sudden changes of temperature, and exposure to bad weather, you are in constant risk of colds, sore throat—or worse.

You can reduce this risk considerably if you care to. Every night when you get home, gargle with Listerine used full strength.

Many a cold and sore throat, threatening to become serious, has been quickly checked by this pleasant antiseptic.

Listerine immediately attacks the germ-producing bacteria in the mouth, nose, and throat.

The wise thing to do, of course, during bad weather, is to use Listerine systematically night and morning.

Rinse your mouth with it. Inhale it through the nose. Gargle with it full strength.

It may be, and very probably will be, the means of sparing you a long and trying siege of illness. Lambert Pharmacal Co., St. Louis, Mo. U. S. A.

SALLY'S SHOULDERS

by Beatrice Burton

Author of "The HOLLYWOOD GIRL" etc.

The Story of a Clever Boston Girl and Her Temperamental Sister

Chapter XXXVII

SALLY had never dreamed that her neat little kitchen could look the way it looked when she stepped inside of it that night.

It was ablaze with light and it was in the wildest disorder imaginable.

The sink strainer was piled high with coffee grounds, orange peel, bread crusts and egg shells. More egg shells lay on the floor under the sink. There was litter everywhere. Mrs. Jerome had been keeping house!

"Oh, my Aunt Tessie!" gasped Sally aloud.

As she stood there another sound came to her quick ears—the muffled sound of sobbing.

Mrs. Jerome lay prone upon the unmade bed, shaken with a storm of weeping.

Sally tried to comfort her—tried to find out what was wrong.

After ten minutes Mrs. Jerome's sobs became less violent. Presently she raised a tear-stained and swollen face.

"Your Papa—he's gone—again," she gulped. "I thought everything was going so nicely. I got his breakfast for him, and then we sat down and had a nice talk. After that I got lunch—the sandwiches you fixed, you know—" She broke off, swallowed once or twice, and struggled for self-control.

"After lunch we got dressed and went to the hospital to spend the afternoon with Millie. I was tired when we got home about seven and I sat down to read never thinking [illegible] you'd be home soon to fix up the house and get supper."

"I telephoned—but no one answered," Sally cut in. "I would have come home at six, but Mr. Nye wanted me to work overtime for him and what could I do but say yes? He's been so good to Millie and to me, too."

Mrs. Jerome looked at her coldly, and Sally saw that, in some way of [illegible] it out that Sally was to blame for whatever [illegible] had just occurred in the [illegible].

"[illegible] you should have been [illegible]," she said, accusingly, [illegible] ran on with her story.

"Well, along about half past seven or so, your father came into the sitting room where I was—and would you believe it?—he had his bag all packed and in his hand! 'I'm going,' he said. 'Everything's just the way it used to be—no meals ready, no beds made, the house the same old pig pen it always was. I'm going [illegible] came from.' And with that he walked out on me just the way he did nine years ago!" She covered her face with her handkerchief again and rocked to and fro in her very real agony.

The door of the room her father had spent the night in stood open. Within the bed was unmade, the ashtray still filled with cigar bands and ashes, the floor littered with papers.

In the bathroom the same chaos reigned.

Sally's Mother Spoke Again With Extreme Bitterness

As Sally stood [illegible] with extreme bitterness.

"Of course there must be a woman behind all this," she said. "No man leaves his wife just because a meal isn't on time. . . . There must always have been a woman in this case. Somebody that your papa cares for more than he cares for me and his children."

Sally wondered. . . . She thought [illegible] the men she knew. They all [illegible] to love order and [illegible] of them—Mr. [illegible] day lunch [illegible] him on the [illegible] appreciation of [illegible] and her gift of [illegible]. Even [illegible], who managed to wear clean [illegible] every day, although he wore his suits until they became shiny and out-of-date.

Yes, men were neat, orderly animals, and Sally could well believe that her father had told the unkind truth when he walked out of his wife's happy-go-lucky, lazy, careless [illegible].

But she did not say so. [illegible] saw that her mother wanted [illegible] that another woman was [illegible] want to [illegible] thing [illegible] the helpless Mother [illegible] manage things and make a go of them!

"Let's forget all about it, dearest," she said [illegible]. "We'll get along [illegible], you and I. Don't you worry." And her mother clung to her.

On the last day in October Mr. Peevey told Sally that he was going to close his office on the last day of November.

Sally, as he left, sat at her desk, staring at the ground-glass pane of the door that led into the hall.

Through that pane she seemed to see John Nye at work in his office across the hall, as she had seen him so often. His dark head bent over [illegible] the desk or [illegible] a pencil. Her heart seemed to close around the thought of him.

Moved by one of these strong, irresistible impulses that come to people only a few times in all their lives, she stood up and walked across the hall to his door. She had no idea of what she wanted to say to him. She simply felt that she had to see him.

Miss [illegible] near-sighted office [illegible] busily [illegible] stopped work [illegible] as Sally came in.

[illegible] going to stop in at the hospital on his way home."

"I Must Have Been Crazy to Go There," Thought Sally

The hospital! Where Millie, almost well now, lay waiting for him, surrounded by [illegible].

"I see," said Sally, dully. And whatever she might have said to him died in her heart, then and there.

"I must have been crazy to go over there at all," thought Sally, when she was back in the quiet [illegible] of Mr. Peevey's office. "Thank heaven that he wasn't there! Goodness knows how I would have explained my rushing in, if he had been there! I guess it will be a good thing for me to get away from this building next month. I'm losing my common sense around this place."

That night when she turned into [illegible] she saw Beau's fiery [illegible] car standing [illegible].

It was then that she remembered that tomorrow would be the first of the month and that she and Millie had arranged to give up their flat on that day.

When she went upstairs she found that they had not waited for the [illegible], but had moved in already. [illegible] trunk stood in the hallway [illegible] old room, and within [illegible] were hard at work unpacking [illegible] suit-cases.

"Isn't it lovely to have Beau at home again?" Mrs. Jerome wanted to know when Sally went into her room to ask what she would like for supper.

Sally said nothing. She loved Beau with all her heart but she was at the least bit sure that it was a good thing for him to be living at home now that he was married. She hoped for the best and secretly feared the worst. But Mrs. Jerome had no such misgivings. Sally had not seen her so light-hearted since the departure of her husband, two weeks before.

"It's so nice to have a man at the head of the table again!" she cooed, beaming upon him like a round [illegible] as he carved the pot-roast at supper time.

"Well, I'm glad to be here, Mother," answered Beau grandly, as if he were doing them a great favor [illegible].

"I wonder what Millie will say when she knows about it," thought Sally, anxiously. "I'm afraid she won't be very happy when she finds that Beau and Mabel have taken her room away from her."

She was pretty sure that there would be fireworks when Millie did find it out, as a matter of fact.

And her eyes were full of [illegible] as she watched Beau hack the roast with a clumsy knife. Beau did not know anything about carving. But he thought he did. He thought very well of himself, most of the time. And Mrs. Jerome helped him out.

Tomorrow—Millie uncovers her real self to John. But does he drop her?

What Is Charm?

If You Have It, You're Less Need of Beauty

DRAWN BY Dorothy Flack

WHAT is charm? The dictionary says it is "[illegible] object supposed to have a magic [illegible] to fascinate, the power of alluring or delighting."

But I'm wondering! I rather have an idea that it's a lot more than that. What constitutes charm in one is [illegible] in another. It is an illusive, intangible something, designated [illegible] more or less [illegible] [illegible]

Agnes began. "I asked you, Emmy [illegible]

[illegible] different folks. They're not like Brown's Brad [illegible]."

Kitten went to the window and made certain signals to Dottie Brent, peeping through the hedge. Silently as a shadow she slipped from the room and Emmy saw the two of them going away down the road, moving faster as they got from sight.

"Where do they go so much, Muz? Kitten's never home. Don't you think—"

"There, now, don't be hard on the child. No harm in their frolicking. Never a word for me, Kitten has—"

That was true enough. Emily thought. Her sister usually managed to get what she wanted with no words at all. But she insisted, "You don't think they've gone out with Flossie [illegible]? I've told K[illegible] [illegible]

Agnes was looking at her now with little movements about her mouth. Wishing to speak of something which seemed to her important—to make it appear a casual, by-the-way thing [illegible] Emily almost knew [illegible].

Keep Your Lips Smooth and Soft, Counsels Jeritza

By Maria Jeritza,

Prima Donna of the Metropolitan Opera Company and One of the Most Beautiful Women of the Day

WHEN the mercury of your thermometer reaches a certain point in its downward progress at this season of year you are likely to find that your lips are growing uncomfortably dry and are inclined to scale.

This means the moment has come to begin your Winter regime of caring for them and keeping them soft and smooth. If you ignore their condition you may very shortly have badly swollen, chapped, ugly lips, which it will not be easy to restore to shapeliness. On the other hand, simple preventive measures should keep your lips soft and smooth all Winter, while the tonic of cold weather will give them glowing color. One advantage of naturally [illegible] the exact [illegible] the natural coloring of your hair and skin and eyes. For Mother Nature is a subtle artist. She is not an amateur.

The lips should be red, but not too red. In [illegible] be beautiful. They should be soft and smooth. They should be exquisitely shaped.

There is just one sure way of giving lovely lines to the lips—cultivation of lovely character. Gentle thoughtfulness of others, cheerfulness, courage, self-restraint,—these qualities lend lines of grace and sweetness to the lips and mouth. It is also [illegible] tend to [illegible] and coarsen the lips, while cruelty stretches them into a thin, grim, ugly line.

There are delightful lip pomades to be bought. These come packed conveniently in [illegible] sticks so that one can be carried in your purse when you have an instant of leisure and privacy. Lip pomades may be bought in white or in the natural rose color so that they cannot show on the lips. In very cold, windy weather it may be well to use your lip pomades many time a day.

Here is a very simple mixture [illegible] You can have your druggist compound it for you or, if you prefer, can make it up at home:

Oil of sweet almonds, one ounce; spermaceti, one ounce; white wax, one-fourth ounce; oil of rose, six drops.

Melt the spermaceti and wax in a small double boiler. Add drop by drop the almond oil. Beat the cream until it is nearly cold, then pour it into a small, open-mouthed jar. When it is stone-cold add the perfume drops.

Be very careful not to bite your lips or twitch them nervously, for [illegible] tend to disfigure the mouth.

Healthy white teeth, and lips made lovely [illegible] constructive thinking, lend beauty to your mouth and charm to your entire personality.

Dr. Reed Gives Some Hints on Winter Influenza

By Chas. A. L. Reed, M. D.,

Former President of the American Medical Association.

YOU are more liable to have influenza now that the Winter is again upon us than you were during the Summer months. That is because the germs that cause influenza are more active in a low than in a high temperature.

This is the key to the early management of influenza. It generally begins with a "hot spot" in the nose or the roof of the mouth or throat. That is where the germ, breathed in from the cold air, has lodged and has begun business. The thing to do is to destroy the invading enemy on the threshold, the threshold being the hot spot in question. You can best do this by radically changing the conditions under which the germs live, thrive and do their devilment. Simply go to your room and heat it to the highest possible point but keep it ventilated. The ventilation is of highest importance. Plenty of fresh oxygen is essential but it should be heated before you breathe it. Take a hot bath. Go to bed. Stay there in the hot, ventilated room kept at a high temperature continuously for twenty-four or thirty-six hours. In the majority of cases this management will abort the attack, particularly if you do not take alcohol, but do take a teaspoonful of bicarbonate of soda (baking soda) in a half glass of cool water a couple of times during the day.

To continue work after the first symptoms are well known, and appear is bad for the patient and may be dangerous to others. Workers obviously ill should at once be sent or taken home. Where influenza is prevalent no person should in any way be penalized for staying away from work for even a slight attack of influenza in any form of feverish [illegible]. On the [illegible] he should be expected and required to do so.

At the first feeling of illness or rise of temperature the patient should do as I have already directed, but while doing it should seek medical treatment. The doctor, if called in at once, has the opportunity of giving advice or treatment which may forestall the more dangerous complications.

Relapses and complications are much less likely to occur if the patient goes to bed at once and remains there for two or three days after all fever has gone. Much harm may be done by getting about too early and many evil consequences are due to chill and over-exertion during convalescence.

Authorities do not always fully realize the importance of protecting those in attendance on the patient. One of the most tragic features in the last epidemic was the [illegible] mortality among hospital staffs.

Rhyming Optimist

By ALINE MICHAELIS

THE voices of the radio
Are like a miracle,
Its captured music serves to show
How all about us dwell;
The joy of song and lovely sound,
How harmonies exist
To ebb the flow and ring us 'round
Which long our dull ears missed.
The voices of the radio
Have proved to us anew
How all man's forces rise and grow
To grasp the good, the true;
How, ever, since the world began,
New gifts have been attained
And, through the slow-unfolding plan,
New realms of beauty gained.

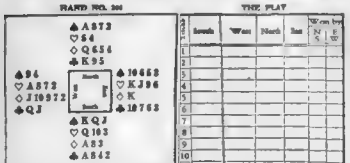
AUCTION BRIDGE

By WILBUR C. WHITEHEAD

The World's Greatest Authority

HAND NO. 201



South is the dealer. What is the proper bidding and play?

In the next issue Mr. Whitehead will explain the salient points in the bidding and play of the above hand. Fill out your own chart and compare it with his method.

These hands must not be had or played "Double Dummy," i. e., as though all four hands were exposed.

Salient Points of the Bidding

Following South's Club bid, West doubles to provide East with full information as to the strength and character of his bidding. East, holding the adverse suit doubly or trebly stopped, and informed by his partner that the remaining suits are also stopped, bids No Trump in response to the double.

Salient Points of the Play

Trick 3. North views the situation as follows: The strength of his own holding and Dummy's leaves East with little in high cards but Clubs, though he may have some strength in Spades. The Ace of Hearts, however, North is questionably places with his partner to justify his opening bid. The opening lead of the 6 of Clubs with the 7 in Dummy places East with four Clubs higher than the 7, and since the 9 played by East was probably East's lowest Club East must still hold three Clubs higher than the 9 and consequently must still have the suit twice stopped. Therefore as between the return of a Club and the lead of a Heart, North favors the Heart as, after the play of the Ace by South, North will be left in a good tenace position over Dummy's Hearts. Had North returned a Club and South taken the trick with the Ace, South, realizing the hopelessness of the Club situation would undoubtedly have switched and in the absence of information from North would more likely have tried Spades than Hearts and game would have been lost.

Mr. Whitehead will answer questions concerning your Bridge problems. Write to him care of this paper, enclosing self-addressed stamped envelope.

MR. FRISBY WILL STRUM NATION'S HEARTSTRINGS

Upon the request of Jack Dempsey, Mr. Frisby has discontinued his practice of autographing photos like the above to send to women admirers. "It was justa joke," says Frisby, nervously.

Congressman-at-Large

WASHINGTON—It is a pleasure to announce that I have been appointed to the Committee on Publication of Temperance Poetry in the Congressional Record. This very important appointment came to me as a complete surprise, as Spenlyn Longworth and I hardly know each other.

Perhaps I was singled out for this honor as a result of my dramatic reading of the following poem on the floor yesterday—

I saw a man at early dawn
Stand in a grog saloon,
His eyes were sunk and his lips were parched,
But that's the drunkard's doom.
A little boy stood by his side,
And falteringly he said:
"O, father! Mother's sick at home,
And sister cries for bread,
And sister cries for bread."

The drunkard staggered to the bar,
As he'd oftimes done before,
And to the landlord pleading said:
"Oh, give me one glass more."
The host complied with his request
And filled the tempting bowl,
He drank while wife and children starved,
He ruined his poor soul,
He ruined his poor soul.

COLDS THAT DEVELOP INTO PNEUMONIA

Persistent coughs and colds lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for persistent coughs and colds and other forms of throat troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the infected membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the creosote goes into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of persistent coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, bronchitis and other forms of respiratory diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist.

THE MEDITATIONS OF A WIFE

BY HELEN ROWLAND

THE way to a man's heart is not through his stomach, but through his vanity. And the path to his vanity is paved with appleseeds.

The gentle art of flattering a man is one of the most vital and subtle forms of vamping, and sometimes more powerful than the well-known U. S. A. or Universal Sex-Appeal.

Never flatter a man by showing jealousy, by hanging around his neck, by calling him up, calling him down, or showing that you missed him. That is flattering him too much; and he will soon begin to wonder why such a combination of brains, beauty and sex-appeal should waste himself on a little fool like you.

* * *

Say it with WORDS—not with actions!

Say it with WORDS and you can go as far as you like. No matter whether you lay it on delicately with a camel's hair brush or slap it on with a trowel, some of it is bound to stick. Fill him with self-admiration, and what slops over will be all yours.

When it comes to swallowing overdone compliments and undiluted flattery, every man has the capacity of an ostrich. He is almost as bad as a woman!

* * *

Of course, every man has his pet illusions about himself, but there are certain stock tributes that almost any man will swallow with relish.

* * *

Tell him that he is "different." All men are alike in thinking that they are different! Tell him that he should have been a writer; that his life would make a book. Tell him that he has a keen, analytical mind; that he knows his groceries; that he is sensitive; that most woman don't understand him; that he has a remarkable sense of humor.

* * *

Praise his JUDGMENT, beg for his ADVICE, applaud his "long-headedn. .!"

Tell him that he has good shoulders. And a strong nose. Admire his taste in cravats; never fail to compliment him on the snappiness of his new socks and the smart appearance of his feet. Remember, that even Achilles had one vulnerable spot—and that was in his FOOT.

But why go on? You've got a start; and once you see how a man melts and runs over under a warm fire of flattery, you can find fifty-seven variations with which to keep the fire going.

* * *

But never let ANY man suspect that he has SEX-APPEAL! For the moment he gets an inkling that he is a Woman-charmer, off he'll flit to try to prove it to ANOTHER woman!

* * *

And never, by any chance let him suspect that you are "sidling" him. Because every man loves to be flattered—but hates to be kidded!

LEARN TO RECOGNIZE YOUR SHORTCOMINGS

By J. J. MUNDY.

ARE you over-sensitive?

Is it easy for you to think you have been insulted or mistreated?

Do you take to yourself any general accusations made in your presence?

Do you find yourself embarrassed, angry or sad after hearing someone express disapproval of certain things that you sometimes do?

You know if you would take the time to think about it, that no personal offense was meant when that matter was talked over so freely before you.

But you choose to think a slight was intended.

You ought to be bigger than the things that might be said of you.

You must train yourself to think twice before you are "put out" with a person who is frank enough to express his opinion to you.

Suppose your opinions do differ?

You have a right to your ideas and opinions, and you must allow your friend the same privilege.

It is a good thing to be told of your shortcomings and thereby be given an opportunity to correct your errors and improve generally.

Would you rather have the truth from a friend than hear him talk against your methods outside and conceal the fact from you?

MEDBURY SAYS---

By JOHN P. MEDBURY

THIS is the time of the year for automobile shows, and millions of people will soon be picking out the kind of cars they can't afford.

ONE manufacturer is coming out with several radical changes. The windshield will be between the front and back seats.

YOUR wife can holler all she wants and she'll be practically talking to herself.

THE tail-light will be on the dashboard so that the driver can see when it goes out.

THE emergency brake is in the tonneau where nervous people can use it every time they get frightened.

THE windows are made of patented glass which only cracks on one side.

THE atomizers in the vanity cases will be filled with laughing gas.

IT brings wonderful results when you spray it on speed cops.

IT puts him in good humor while he's making out the ticket.

HE'LL eventually laugh himself to death and tear up the summons.

MOST of the new cars are extra speedy so that the owner can keep three or four states ahead of the finance company.

THE average man doesn't care about the length of the wheelbase. He's more interested in the size of the down payment.

THE 1928 Ford is much heavier. It no longer flies off the handle.

IT has four-wheel brakes so that you can stop instantly on any pedestrian.

ALL models come equipped with two sets of mudguards. One for the east and one for Kansas.

IF it wasn't for the looks of the car, you couldn't tell it from a Lincoln.

THE old Lizzies will be sold to customers who like to swear and haven't time to play golf.

WHILE automobiles have revolutionized the problem of transportation, equines aren't out of date yet. Horses are still good for losing money on.

Why Be Sluggish at ANY Age?

Age need not bring on sluggishness—and won't, if you give the system a tiny bit of calcium now and then.

Calcium cleanses the system as no cathartic can, with none of the after-effects that make salts so injurious. They form no habit—and they gradually induce the bowels to daily natural evacuation. Stuart's Calcium Wafers are the best insurance against auto-intoxication.

Try it!

A five-day test will prove to you very conclusively the system's need for calcium, and the decided benefit from these little wafers. Your druggist has them—the test size for pocket is 10c. Or the family size, 60c.

TELLS HOW TO EXERCISE ECONOMY

NEW YORK, Dec. 28.—Here is one family consisting of husband and wife and ten-year-old boy who "have plenty to eat" on a grocery bill of only $20 a month. How do they do it?

B. C. Forbes

This column tells. It throws inside light also, on how this family manages to get along apparently happily and pay for a home and carry $12,000 of insurance, all on "just a little more per week" than $27.50 received by the Seattle store clerk, whose budget was presented here recently.

* * *

Judging by the number of letters received, alike from struggling families and rich, this subject of how to maintain a home on modest pay possesses widespread interest. Employers, as well as workers, examine closely the various household budgets which have been given in this column.

* * *

The budget submitted today, with the accompanying letter, is refreshing because of the cheerful note struck by the worker, a railway employe. Not only so, but the practical suggestions on how to buy food, etc., to the best advantage, may help other families who have difficulty in making their pay envelopes cover all necessities.

* * *

This railway workman writes in part:

"Here is my solution of the financial problem of the Seattle store clerk:

"First, I am going to compare my expenses with his. I am getting a salary of just a little more per week than he is, and am also buying a home and my notes on it are larger by practically $10 per month than his.

	His Budget	Mine
Payment on house	$23.10	*$30.00
Lights	1.75	1.50
Water	.75	.50
Insurance, $1,000	1.90	x15.00
Sick benefit	1.15	none
Boy's School Bank	1.10	none
Daily paper	1.00	.78
Fuel	10.75	x2.50
Car fare	4.50	x2.50
Lunches	6.75	none
Tobacco	8.00	none
Taxes	4.00	7.00
Housekeeping	45.00	x30.00
Clothing	15.00	15.00
Amusements, etc.	4.00	75
	$123.75	$105.53

*Plus accrued interest. xApproximately Life insurance carried, $12,000.

"Now there are several of his items which I think he could lower considerably. They are tobacco and amusements, and he could considerably lower his cost on lunches by taking them from his home (unless he has some kind of stomach trouble which won't permit it). I do not see how his fuel bill is so high unless he has a worthless furnace and in that event it would pay him to buy a new one. One advantage I have on that item is that in our home we do not have a furnace but run a large heating stove, laundry stove to heat water for washing dishes and taking baths, and a grate in our living room.

"I suppose it will be hard for him to believe that the grocery bill for the three of us hardly ever runs over $20 a month, but the way that is handled is we watch the prices every week-end advertised by the serve-yourself and other chain stores, and when they make a special price on any one item or a 'leader' we go and get that; also, we use a substitute for butter (butter selling at 45c to 55c a pound), the substitute selling sometimes as low as 19c.

"By this kind of watching, any one would be really surprised as to how low in price groceries can be purchased. 'Service grocers' will sometimes charge from one-quarter to one-third more. Yet all three of us have plenty to eat.

"As to his carfare, I do not know how far he lives from his work, but I walk about two miles each way a day, except when the weather is bad, to get to and from my work.

"I am with a railroad and there are three of us in the family, our boy being ten years old. I have other expenses besides the ones mentioned above."

A good many letters come from persons who complain that they neither experience nor see much of the "great national prosperity" they constantly read about in the newspapers. Farmers, naturally, have been among those of this frame of mind.

White-collar employes getting small pay also are asking whether it isn't time for employers to give them a little consideration. Some complain that the statements and statistics they read about the wage level rising in this country are no doubt true, but that the advances are granted usually to highly unionized workers, not to clerks and other office workers not organized. Is this true?

Widening and extending Stuart Street was the idea of a Boston man who now comes forward with plans for the construction of the largest retail-and-office structure in the world.

BOSTON EVENING AMERICAN

BOSTON, WEDNESDAY, DECEMBER 28, 1927

The same citizen has other good ideas. He would relieve congestion and otherwise improve traffic conditions by building a bridge across the Charles from Dartmouth Street. MUST be done, he says, before 1930.

A NEW YEAR'S GIFT TO NEW ENGLAND—THE WORLD'S LARGEST RETAIL-OFFICE BUILDING

"THE HEART OF BOSTON," SOUND AND VIGOROUS

This striking panorama of the Park Square district, soon to be further improved by the erection of the New England Building and the opening of a department store which its promoters say will "profit by and surpass all past achievements," presents such a picture as may be seen from the John Hancock Building. From left to right the principal buildings are the Ritz-Carlton Hotel, Berkeley Building, Park Square Building, Custom House tower, Statler Hotel (above and to the left of the Paine Furniture Building), Boston Consolidated Gas Building, where Arlington crosses Stuart street and Columbus avenue, old Cadet Armory, Salada Tea Building and part of Police Headquarters. In the distance to the left is the State House dome.

The New England Building, to be completed in November next, will be erected upon the vacant lot in the centre, now used as a parking ground. Between the new building and the Paine Furniture Building a service street will be constructed, 50 feet wide. The "largest building in the world," only a few steps from the Public Garden, will be directly connected with the Boylston street subway. It will represent an investment of approximately $20,000,000.

ANNOUNCEMENT of the proposed erection here of the largest retail-and-office building in the world is further evidence that the Boston which has so definitely struck out upon the high road of progress is a New Model.

The plans made public by officers and directors of the New England Building, Inc., present the picture of a structure so vast, so imposing and of such cost as could be contemplated by only a GREAT city.

And that is what THIS city is; not the community of 779,620 people described by gazeteers and year-books, but the fourth largest metropolitan area in the U. S. A., with a population of 1,808,845.

Only New York, Chicago and Philadelphia are larger. None of these will be able to exhibit a larger pile of the same type as the New England building.

Fame of an Enterprising Town

The story revealed over the signatures of V. C. Bruce Wetmore, W. J. McDonald, Henry I. Harriman, E. M. Statler, Governor Trumbull of Connecticut, President Walter S. Wyman of the Central Maine Power Company, William L. Shearer, Jr., Charles L. Edgar, Winfield S. Quinby, Max Shoolman, Percy E. Woodward and their associates is a rallying call to all New England.

It will be heard around the world.

It will be "good publicity."

As the great structure advances skyward newsreels will depict the progress of the work to lookers-on in motion picture theatres everywhere. Newspapers in remote corners of the earth will carry stories of the "largest building."

Tourists, of course, will continue to visit the shrines and other spots which have made OLD Boston hallowed ground—Paul Revere House, Bunker Hill Monument, Faneuil Hall, Franklin's Birthplace, Griffin's Wharf and the rest—but they will not fail to be impressed by the vigor and the beauty of the New Boston which, quite as if by magic, so recently has grown up around and about it.

What's What in Park Square

This latest proposed addition to the dignity and economic importance of the Park Square neighborhood, as well as to the modern architectural beauty which distinguishes that section, will add one more name to a remarkable leader-list. Consider the honor roll:

Largest garage in the world (Motor Mart).

Largest building in the world devoted exclusively to the merchandising of tea (Salada).

Home of largest mutual liability insurance company in America (American Mutual).

Largest building devoted to the merchandising of electrical apparatus (Pettingell-Andrews).

Largest office building in New England (Park Square Building).

Largest hotel in New England (Statler).

Largest retail furniture building (Paine's).

Largest theatre in New England (Metropolitan).

Largest public utility building in New England (Consolidated Gas).

Largest insurance company building in New England (John Hancock).

Largest wholesale furniture building in New England (Peck & Hills).

Largest police headquarters in New England.

The transformation which has taken place in the Park Square section in the past 14 years is almost unbelievable. Fifteen years ago the old Boston & Providence depot, already long in disuse, fronted Park Square at the intersection of Columbus Avenue and Providence Street, now the site of the Hotel Statler.

The depot became a skating rink, in its turn to be abandoned. Eventually the Selwyn Theatre was erected at the northerly end of the block. Aside from this, and a few straggling old buildings where now stands the Motor Mart, there was nothing here but tracks.

The district slumbered. Business passed by on Boylston Street, making its way as far as Copley Square.

The Sleeper Wakes

Then, something happened. All of a sudden property owners awoke to the POSSIBILITIES of a district given over to automobile repair shops and second-hand stores. One by one NEW buildings began to dot the horizon—the store of the Paine Furniture Company—the Park Square Building—the Boston Consolidated Gas Company structure—the magnificent Statler—the Motor Mart—other great buildings of steel and concrete, in a region which but a few years before was no more than a swamp!

The man who first put the breath of life into the deserted railroad yards was W. J. McDonald.

It was McDonald who persuaded the John Hancock Life Insurance Company to venture out to Clarendon Street. The same McDonald, according to the story of this development as real estate men tell it, has played some part in the erection of almost all fifteen buildings of the "superlative" order which now grace the neighborhood.

When McDonald first proposed the widening and extension of Stuart street some of his friends thought he was day-dreaming. It was an alluring picture, they conceded, bold and daring certainly, but wasn't it—well, visionary? The cost, man!

Time, however, and not a very long time, has demonstrated that W. J. McDonald is not only inspiring but exceptionally long-headed; not only bold but solid, not only daring but prudent.

Stuart Street Pays for Itself

McDonald carried his Big Idea to the city's chief executive, Andrew J. Peters. Under HIS leadership the Stuart Street widening was studied, approved, financed and carried through to completion. It was the First-Prize achievement of the Peters term.

Expensive? Yes; to do the Stuart Street job cost the City of Boston $2,961,568.36. But the property owners who benefited most directly from the improvement already have paid into the city treasury more than $2,300,000! Exclusive of increased taxes, therefore, the net cost of Stuart Street was little more than $500,000. Betterment payments yet to be collected will reduce this further, and now see what is going to happen!

The Great Idea of the New England Building, Inc., and the New England Department Store, Inc., is McDonald's, too.

The BUILDING will serve as sales and display headquarters for New England industries, including a permanent New England Industrial Exposition.

There will be three stories below ground, the lowest level a parking place for tenants and their employees, and the second a parking place for customers of the Store. "Park your car and take an elevator."

A Permanent New England Fair

The first basement and the first five floors above ground will be devoted to the department store, with the exception of such space as will be taken by 20 specialty shops facing on St. James Avenue or Stuart Street. On these streets will be the main entrances to the building, a connecting arcade running from one street to the other.

The STORE will be the principal tenant, occupying on five floors and in the basement more than 500,000 square feet of space.

The proposed tower of the building is likely to call for special provision, perhaps an enabling act by the Legislature. This tower will contain not more than 12% of the total floor space, the aim being not only to provide light and air for the tenants, and otherwise suit their convenience, but at the same time to have in mind the surrounding architecture and the rights and conveniences of the entire zone.

Into Boston's down-town shopping district there come every day as many as 650,000 people. Where do they come from? The population of Municipal Boston is 779,620. * * * But the population of METROPOLITAN Boston is 1,808,845!

Boston has become the third largest retail market in America—and the best in big-store opportunity—because it serves the close-knit millions of New England as their principal or, at least, occasional shopping-center.

Of the existing department stores, one employs approximately 5,000 workers. The annual sales of this great store, and of at least one other, exceed $20,000,000. Others approach this total. For the majority of Boston department stores the total annual business has doubled every ten years for several decades.

First Aid for Traffic Tangle

The heart of the retail trade district is marked by Washington, Tremont and Boylston Streets. Every important department store may be found within a radius of a mile. IF there were no automobiles in the way, no "traffic," one could walk from one end of the district to the other in not more than 15 minutes.

The New England Department Store, Inc., its promoters believe, represents the inevitable response of big business enterprise to the increasing pressure of population, traffic and public demand for less wasteful and more convenient shopping facilities. They look upon it as the "first great step to relieve costly congestion."

Elbridge L. Howe, who has been brought home to New England to take charge of preparations for the "newest and finest department store in America," was for 10 years one of the executive management of the largest retail store in the world, that of Marshall Field & Company, Chicago. Mr. Howe's father was a Marlboro merchant. His great grandfather, Samuel Wilder, conducted a general store in Rindge, New Hampshire. The family dates back to the Revolution.

Engineering work on the site of the New England Building, in preparation for construction, will begin next month. The structure will be completed in November of the coming year. Estimates place the cost of the combined projects at approximately $20,000,000.
